LABOR LEADERS BLAST NEW DEAL JOB MUDDLING

Demand Halt to Save Nation's Industries.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 4 [Special].—A blasting criticism of the New Deal's "seven years of experimentation" was published today by a group of ten labor leaders, most of whom are attending the sessions of the American Federation of Labor executive council here.

It was charged that seven years of government tinkering has left an aftermath of labor strife, depression, and unemployment.

The charges were made in an eight page statement of principles issued by the group, headed by William L. Hutcheson, general president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

Others Signing Indictment.

Experiments Reviewed.

Under the heading "A Call for Action" the statement declared:

"Innovation after innovation have followed upon each other so fast that only a trained few could keep abreast of changes. If after seven years the situations of labor, industry, and agriculture had materially improved, if happiness and progress, hope and confidence had resulted, we could conclude that the experiment had been worth while.

"Instead we find labor torn into warring camps. We find industry depressed and capital on strike. We find 10 million of America's workers unemployed. We find youth discontented and age discouraged. We find not only widespread material suffering but in every walk of life we find fear for the great intangibles of America; fear for the liberties that Americans have cherished for more than a century and a half."

Tax Burden Cited.

The statement points to the disastrous effects of the growing burden of taxation and the increased public debt.

"One of the great drags upon industry during the last seven years has been the burden of taxation that has been imposed upon big and little business," the statement declared. "There are literally thousands of industrial and commercial concerns which have been forced into red figures by the taxes which have been imposed on flagging business.

"How heavy these taxes have been may be seen from reference to some of the nation's largest and strongest industries. The total amount of ascertainable tax bill for a leading automobile concern for 1935 was $63,150,000. This represented $1.37 per share of common stock and $334 per employé.

"In 1937 total taxes were $104,959,000, or $2.45 per share of stock an $444 per employé.

How Taxes Climb.

"In 1929 steel taxes represented 14 cents per dollar of wages paid. In 1938 taxes equaled 21 cent per wage dollar.

"In an examination of 163 typical corporations, the American Federation of Investors reported that in 1938 taxes consumed 61.6 per cent of the net earnings of these 163 corporations. Nineteen of these companies reported a deficit before taxes, while the earnings of 15 others were wiped out by taxes, leaving deficits for the year.

"The effect of this tremendous drain on industry, is doubly disastrous on labor and employment. Every dollar paid in taxes by industry is a dollar that cannot be used for pay rolls, for development, or for expansion. Yet industry at least has a possibility of passing on to the consumer, in increased prices, a substantial part of the taxes that it pays. The one person who cannot pass on

COURTNEY PUTS LIGHT ON 'CRIME AND POLITICS'

Pictures Discoveries of 'Fix' Aftermath.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

"Crime and politics!"

This was the caption State's Attorney Thomas Courtney last night tacked on a gigantic canvas on which for weeks he has been sketching a sordid picture of vote frauds, jury fixing, political sponsorship of ex-convicts, and gangland intimidation of public officials.

State's Attorney Courtney.

The state's attorney last night said the picture still is unfinished. New figures are coming into the light. Strange and hitherto mysterious relationships are being exposed.

"What it will show when the picture is finished, I do not know," he said. "But of this I'm sure: The caption will be 'crime and politics.'

Acquittal First Step.

"The picture began to take form," Courtney explained, "when a jury freed Sam Orlando and Joe Vinci of vote fraud. They had been accused by numerous persons of stealing more than 100 votes for Democratic candidates in the judicial election last June. We thought the evidence was overwhelming. We started an investigation."

Out of that investigation have come revelations that:

1. A state policeman was given his pistol and star despite the authorities' knowledge that he had escaped trial as a robber by being found insane.

2. Another state policeman had served a term in Pontiac.

3. A man who dropped bombs from an airplane on a coal mine had been put in a state office thru the sponsorship of Ray Edmundson, head of the United Mine Workers' union in Illinois and state leader of the C. I. O.

4. An ex-convict who worked for the city served on the September grand jury which investigated syndicate gambling and which indicted Judge Eugene L. McGarry for conspiracy in accepting bail for criminals.

5. The brother of Joe Vinci [the defendant freed in the vote fraud case which Courtney now charges was tried by a fixed jury] is Sam Vinci, who in 1926 was convicted of murder and freed last July on a conditional pardon by Gov. Henry Horner. Police now are hunting Sam for violating the conditions of the pardon.

Jurors' Background Studied.

But to start at the beginning of the current series of revelations and some of the difficulties and strange aspects of the investigation!

Courtney cut short a vacation in Florida when Vinci and Orlando were acquitted Dec. 20. He ordered his staff to dig into every circumstance, get the background of every juror, and look into the record of the defendants.

Courtney said his investigation immediately ran into a snag when he sought the criminal record of a suspect and found Police Commissioner Allman had given permission to some one to take the picture and fingerprints of the suspects from the bureau of identification on April 17, 1939, 11 years after his arrest. [For two days efforts by the press to reach Allman for an explanation have been unavailing.]

Attorney Questioned in Florida.

Attorney Harold Levy was associated with Attorney George Crane in the defense of Orlando and Vinci. Levy, as an assistant state's attorney in 1928, prosecuted several persons for a bank robbery. The case against one defendant was nolle prossed. The jury fixing investigation focused attention on that defendant. But the record was missing from the detective bureau files, Courtney said.

[Last night Attorney Levy was reached in Florida. He said he had no recollection of the defendant and could not supply the missing link Courtney sought. Levy said he knew nothing about the removal of the record.]

Highway Slush Brings Death to Five in Indiana

Five persons were killed and 19 injured late yesterday afternoon in a series of four automobile accidents within a 15 mile area around Michigan City and La Porte, Ind.

All the accidents occurred within a few hours. All were on main highways. And all were blamed on one factor—a slushy snowfall that converted roads and highways into slippery, hazardous slabs.

List of the Dead.

The five fatality victims were:

MRS. GLADYS WOLF, 42 years old, South Bend, Ind.

ARTHUR BREWER, 40, Niles, Mich.

CATHERINE ENGLE, 12, of near La Porte, Ind.

MICHAEL KAZMIERCZAK, 25, Michigan City, Ind.

MRS. JAMES P. NORWOOD, 48, colored, 6240 South Ada street, Chicago.

Eight persons were injured in the crash which took the lives of Mrs. Wolf and Brewer. She was driving. In her car were her husband, William; their children, Marjorie and Franklin, and Brewer and his wife. Their car skidded on the icy pavement on route 43, four miles south of Michigan City, and was struck by another car containing George Snook of Valparaiso, Ind.; his wife, Mabel, and their two children, William and Paul. Mrs. Brewer and Mr. Wolf were seriously hurt. The Wolf children and all the Snooks will recover.

Girl Killed in Crash.

The Engle girl was killed in a collision on route 2, three miles east of LaPorte. She was in a car with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Engle and her sisters, Nancy, 4 years old, and Susan, 8 months old, when it collided with a machine driven by J. H. Doneit, 41, of 7724 Eastlake terrace, Chicago. Engle and Susan suffered skull fractures and may die. Mrs. Engle, Nancy and Doneit, a salesman, were slightly hurt.

Kazmierczak was riding with Casimir Novak, 25, of Michigan City, when their automobile skidded off U. S. highway 12, two miles east of Michigan City. Novak suffered a leg fracture.

Mrs. Norwood was killed and her husband and their two children were hurt when their car skidded into a bridge abutment on U. S. highway 20, a mile and a half southeast of Michigan City. Two other Chicagoans, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Manz, 1659 Congress street, were cut and bruised when they drove off the road to avoid the Norwood wreck.

FRANCE WARNED ITALY MAY FIGHT TO SHARE SUEZ

ROME, Feb. 4.—The Popolo d'Italia, Premier Mussolini's newspaper, today warned France that if necessary Italy would solve the problem of the Suez canal by force of arms.

The editorial quoted a passage from a book, "Suez—Romance of an Enterprise," published in France, stating that as Great Britain has always considered Italy one of her vassals "It is not possible that England, yielding to Italian demands, would apply pressure on France to grant Italy a seat in the board of directors of the canal."

The Italo-Ethiopian conquest has shown how much Italy depended on Britain's good will, said the editorial, which stressed that one chapter of the book is lacking.

"But there is no hurry," it continued. "Italy might write this chapter with the same means used by the publisher to print his book—lead, the means with which the Italian people conquered the empire."

Rider Killed, Another Hurt as Horses Collide Head-On

New York, Feb. 4 [Special].—A 29 year old horseback rider incurred fatal injuries and another was hurt seriously this afternoon when their mounts, running in opposite directions, collided on the bridle path in Prospect park, Brooklyn. Irving Moshroff of Brooklyn died two hours later in a hospital. The injured man is John Jelbaily, 24, also of Brooklyn.

British Air Line to Resume Service Across Atlantic

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 4 (AP).—Neil Richardson, an official of the company's operations department, said today that Imperial Airways' trans-Atlantic service between Great Britain, Canada, and the United States will be resumed late next spring.

Nazis Collect Earphones of All Radio Sets

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Nazi storm troopers were ordered today to collect all radio earphones held by private individuals in Germany. Collections are to be made on the ground that the apparatus is needed in training civilians for reserve duty in the army signal corps. Storm Troopers periodically collect old clothing for winter relief, and old newspapers, scrap iron, and other articles in an attempt to make Germany self-sufficient.

The order to collect earphones was issued a few days after the latest warning to Germans that drastic penalties would be imposed for listening to foreign radio broadcasts.

Needs of the Army.

Nazis continue to curtail consumption of a variety of articles because they have to be imported or are needed for the army. Industrial enterprises have been instructed to keep no more than a three months' supply of paper on hand. If inventory exceeds this amount the companies are forbidden to order any more. Newspapers, meanwhile, urge their readers not to be impatient if deliveries are slow. They blame the delay on disrupted train service.

German camera fans have been instructed that factory production has been restricted to 25 per cent of prewar output and that many models will not be available at all, as they are being turned out only for the export trade.

Pictures for Poles.

Meanwhile, Heinrich Hoffman, personal photographer for Fuehrer Hitler, has opened a branch store in Warsaw to give Poles an opportunity to buy official pictures of Hitler and other leading Nazi personalities.

The number of homes without heat increases daily as the coal shortage continues. Some public institutions, such as the state library and the academy of music, have closed for the lack of fuel and many schools have curtailed classes.

Nazi officials assure the public that the shortage of coal is due to the weather, which has crippled transportation.

America Informs Sweden It Sells No Gas to Russia

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 4.—The American legation in Stockholm today issued an official denial that the United States has supplied Russia with gasoline since the war with Finland broke out. The denial later was broadcast by the official news agency, the Deningen Arnas.

SEES SORTAVALA SMASHED UNDER WAVES OF PLANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SORTAVALA, Finland, Feb. 2 [By Courier to Helsingfors]. — Bolshevism made Sortavala, Finland's prosperous little harbor and commercial center on the northwest corner of Lake Ladoga, the chief point of bomb attacks today [Friday].

As I approached the town in the afternoon after a visit to the front near Janisjarvi, I caught a glimpse of the burning city still miles away. Zigzagging to avoid fresh bomb holes and dodging tiny fire engines pumping water from Lake Ladoga, I entered the town. I passed entire blocks of burning buildings and hundreds of men fighting fires or attempting to save furniture, food, and merchandise.

Too Busy to Notice.

Soviet planes still were over the town dropping bombs, but the explosions were almost unnoticed by the firemen, home guards, and other men who were salvaging property and rescuing people from buildings and bomb shelters and sending them to safety in the suburbs. There lines of American trucks and buses were transporting the people to quarters hurriedly prepared for them some miles from town.

Altho Sortavala has long been considered in the front zone of warfare few of its 8,000 inhabitants had left their homes earlier. Altho I saw hundreds of women with small children hurrying thru the streets toward the buses and trucks I saw no sign of panic, tho many of the children were cold and hungry from a day spent entirely in bomb shelters, most of them unheated.

Record of the Raids.

Here is the dry official description of the Sortavala raids as noted by Ruth Poystl, a 20 year old schoolteacher acting as a member of the staff of the Sortavala air raid protection corps:

"At 8:12 a. m. the first alarm; eight machines reported approaching town from the southeast. They crossed the outskirts toward the interior of the country. 8:25, all clear sounded. 8:44, four machines from the same direction, no bombs. 9:15, all clear sounded. 9:37, alarm again, six machines crossed from Valamo monastery toward Sortavala. 9:40, 12 heavy bombs dropped within the town, one landing on an old building and others in the market square, destroying trees. No fire.

"At 9:43 three more machines bombed the suburb of Ristisaari. At 9:48 the machines left. At 9:54 six machines reported coming from the northeast. They circled the town, dropping bombs. At 10:04 two Finnish fighters appeared. The Russian machines departed, pursued southward by the Finns.

Turn from Finnish Planes.

"At 10:10 another large squadron was reported over Valamo. They approached Sortavala, but seeing the Finnish planes they turned and bombed the monastery on their way back to soviet territory. At 11:09 all clear was sounded; at 11:21 another alarm from the southeast observation post, which reported that nine machines were flying toward Sortavala. At 11:24 Valamo again warned Sortavala that 51 machines were flying toward the town; 11:25, the southern observation post reported 10 bombers were approaching.

"At 11:26 the first bombs began to fall. Until noon there was a continual rain of bombs, and the connections with six observation posts had been broken and Sortavala was without electricity, water, telephone or telegraph communication with the remainder of Finland."

Boy Scouts as Messengers.

Boy Scouts from 12 to 16 years old were acting as messengers. I watched them make reports. Breathless from running, they stood at attention to report to the air raid protection corps officer what buildings had been hit by incendiary bombs and what help was needed to combat the fires which were destroying several blocks of the town.

Very few boys showed signs of nervousness, and when I offered them candy they took it with fingers which did not tremble. In bearing and courage they were just small editions of their big brothers who were out on the front line fighting one of the fiercest wars in the history of Europe.

At 12:35 p. m. 21 new machines joined the other planes, bringing the total number of bombers over Sortavala to 83 machines. They continued to circle and drop bombs from a height of 13,000 feet. Fresh ones continued to appear from the west and east until accurate count was lost.

The fighters later flew low over the city and machine gunned the men

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 4 (AP).—Flames raged thru the seaport of Turku [Abo] tonight after a day of heavy bombing by soviet war planes, which also renewed attacks on Viipuri [Viborg], at the head of the Gulf of Finland, and reduced the city's ancient cathedral to ruins.

The raids coincided with Finnish reports of fresh successes on land, in which the Russians were said to have lost more than 1,000 men in a futile attempt to break thru the Karelian isthmus defenses near Summa, 20 miles south of Viipuri. The Russians were also reported to have suffered "heavy losses" east of Muolaajarvi, on the isthmus front.

Famed for Art Windows.

Turku, Finland's ancient capital on the southwest coast, was bombed steadily thruout the afternoon. Details on the number of casualties were not immediately available.

At Viipuri, soviet bombers roared to the attack shortly after dawn, and continued to rain explosives on the city far into the evening.

Numerous buildings, in addition to the cathedral, which was built in 1600, were reduced to ruins. The cathedral was famed for its stained glass windows, art treasures, and great organ, which was one of the largest in Europe.

The Red army, a Finnish communique said, attempted to pound thru the Mannerheim line along the Viipuri-Leningrad railway which runs between Summa and Muolaajarvi. The Russians were said to have lost nine tanks near Summa in four attacks.

Kuopio Raided Again.

Despite efforts of Finland's small air force to fight back, droves of Russian planes continued to keep the interior of Finland in a state of almost constant alarm, with 40 civilians officially reported killed in yesterday's raids.

Three squadrons of Red planes attacked Kuopio and 92 planes officially were reported to have killed 15, wounded 44, and destroyed 85 houses at Sortavala, a port on Lake Ladoga, on Friday. Eleven Russian planes were reported shot down.

Northeast of Lake Ladoga where heavy fighting has been reported within the past few weeks only minor engagements were reported but the Finns said their patrols were "successful against enemy supply lines."

The Finnish Communique.

The Finnish communique follows in part:

"LAND: On the [Karelian] isthmus the enemy continued to attack in the Summa sector on Feb. 3. Four times attacking enemy detachments advanced and each time they were beaten off. Enemy dead were estimated at over 1,000. Nine tanks were destroyed.

"Another attack was launched in the morning east of Muolaajarvi, but was repulsed with heavy enemy losses. Our artillery silenced several enemy batteries and infantry guns.

"Northeast of Lake Ladoga the day was relatively quiet. Activity of our patrols was successful against enemy supply lines. At Kuhmo attacks on positions held by our troops were repulsed.

Many Towns Bombed.

"AIR: On the night of Feb. 2 enemy aircraft made several flights over Hango, Tammisaari, and Koivisto.

"On Feb. 3 Mantyluoto and Tammisaari were raided in southwest Finland; Kerava, Loviisa, Kotka and vicinity in south Finland, and Kuopio in central Finland. Very small enemy air formations appeared in the regions of Lieksa, Vuokatti, Hyrynsalmi, Salla, and Kemijarvi. In the Petsamo region, Nautsi and Ivalo were bombed."

The Russian Communique.

"Feb. 4.—Chiefly activities of scouts. Clashes of infantry units began in the area north of Lake Ladoga. Soviet aviation made reconnoitering and bombing flights."

THE FULL STORY OF FINN VICTORY AT SUOMUSSALMI

General Tells How Reds Were Destroyed.

WITH THE FINNISH ARMY ON THE CENTRAL NORTHERN FRONT, Feb. 3 [Delayed].—The battle of Suomussalmi, in which in the first five weeks of the war small Finnish forces destroyed two Russian divisions, is ancient history.

It is only now, almost a month after the Finns brought final ruin to the invading Russians and turned that lovely stretch of peaceful lakes and snow-covered fir trees into a frozen horror of grotesquely contorted bodies and abandoned guns, tanks, trucks, field kitchens, and all the other paraphernalia of war, that the significance of that battle can be fully appreciated. Some evidence of the leading factors in that ghastly play now becomes available for the first time.

The stories further show the dramatic but confused picture given by the two brief communiques at the time and explain that dreadful battlefield with its miles of grizzled dead men.

Still Worth Recounting.

Their stories are worth telling even this late. It is apparent that the double barreled victory of Suomussalmi quite possibly will be recorded as a turning point and may well be studied in military academies generations hence as a classic masterpiece of defense on an inner line on which, by skillful maneuvering and infallible timing, a small force was able to overwhelm a large one infinitely better armed.

Correspondents have been able to discuss the battle with the Finnish general who directed it and with a Russian officer who took an important part in it. The general's name cannot be given for military reasons, but some day it may be in history books. For had not the scanty and illclad Finnish troops that he commanded stopped the drive at Finland's waistline in December and January Finland must have been cut in two. Her avenue of supplies in the west would have been closed and she must almost certainly have perished as a nation.

To explain the battle the general, who lives and works in a large private house, spread a huge map on a large billiard table. He went over the battle step by step, making it apparent for the first time how the small Finnish forces had annihilated two of Russia's divisions.

How It Happened.

The fresh 44th Red division, coming in answer to frantic radio calls from the beleaguered 163d division, got within four miles of its objective. At this point, however, an insignificant Finnish force prevented the 44th from crossing this narrow gap until another small Finnish force had destroyed the 163d division and then turned around and pounced on the starved, freezing, isolated and bewildered 44th.

On the outbreak of war, the Russians had sent strong forces toward Suomussalmi from northeast and southeast while the Finns, almost totally unprepared on their eastern frontier, hastily gathered what forces they could to check them. The Finns had expected no more than a division to invade this sector, but the Russians had secretly built new roads to the frontier and the Finns suddenly found themselves confronted with an army corps of three divisions.

The Finns dared not give pitched battle to such overwhelming forces. They contented themselves with delaying and harassing the Russians by forays of their white-clad ski patrols, which swooped down from the forest, shooting Russian officers as they rode by in their staff cars and disorganizing transport. In such fighting one patrol of 60 men held up two Russian regiments on the road for a whole week.

These two soviet regiments had succeeded in taking Suomussalmi church village and the Russians gradually massed the 163d division on Lake Kianta, some of them on the northern arm of the lake but most on the southern arm.

Hold Southern Shore.

Meanwhile, one force of Finns held the southern shore of Lake Kianta's southern arm and another formed in the neighborhood of Lake Piispa, north of Lake Kianta. The number of these forces is not disclosed even today, but a Finnish division on Lake Kianta was reinforced by one battalion and a regiment came in to strengthen the Finnish main body south of Lake Kianta.

On Dec. 11 this main body, which had checked Russian advances across the southern arm, launched its own attack. These men took the road leading from the Russian frontier to Suomussalmi church village and then began extending westward. On the fifth day they took Suomussalmi and cut communications between the two Russian forces at either end of Lake Kianta.

More reinforcements reached the Finns, and on Dec. 26 those at Lake Piispa were able to launch an attack down the road to force the Russians at the north end of Lake Kianta further south and break their communications. At the same time the Finns on the southern arm began to attack the Russians there, and so began the main phase of a battle that raged for six days in temperature of 20 to 30 degrees below zero.

The Russians were now trapped on the shore of the lake with their communications cut. They were harried night and day by exasperating, damaging, lightning attacks, which wore down and demoralized them. They could not get food and munitions, and on Dec. 30 they collapsed.

Part of the 163d tried to escape northeast along the thick ice on the main part of Lake Kianta, which is two miles wide. Their tanks formed a flanking guard along the shores.

Soviet planes circled overhead and tried to protect them. The Finns summoned their own small force of planes from other sectors and, when the retreating Russians passed the narrow part of the lake, where it breaks into two arms, Finnish aviators bombed them. Finnish troops also bombarded and machine gunned the Reds from the wooded shores, killing all but small remnants, which fled thru the forests and probably died in that Arctic wilderness.

Russian Tells His Story.

How the Russian division felt while these terrible things were happening was told to me by a Russian officer in a prison camp. He commanded a large body of troops. He is middle-aged, and a professional soldier of long service in the Red army. He is a superior type, the son of a peasant. He told his story in a straight forward manner. He—and other Russian officers support him—attributed the ill success of the Russians to bad organization and preparation.

This officer had been sent to the division on Jan. 1. Five hours later the road was interrupted, and by the next evening it was entirely closed. There was no food for the horses, and on Jan. 2 the men ate a small meal, the last they were to have, for the food was entirely gone. After that, thru five terrible days, the division had nothing but a half dozen sacks of hardtack dropped by airplanes—hardly enough for a chicken.

"If we had retreated on Jan. 2 before we were cut off," said the officer, "the division might have saved itself, but the order to retire was not given until it was too late."

He told how the Finns, having surrounded the Russians, opened fire with artillery and machine guns on the headquarters of all eight regiments and auxiliary units composing the division. A Russian regiment attacked in an effort to open the road, and 70 per cent were killed or wounded. The Russians saw clearly that their position was hopeless.

"Everybody was terribly hungry," said the officer. "The Finns were penetrating our lines on every side. The men were dazed with hunger and the dreadful cold.

Appeal to General.

"Other officers had appealed to Vinogradov [the Russian general in command] to retreat on Jan. 2, but he had refused, saying he could not unless ordered by higher authority. He asked for help later, but the Finns had cut our communications to the rear, and the corps command could not understand why, with our forces and our artillery, we could not dispose of them ourselves.

"On the afternoon of Jan. 6 he transmitted his order by radio, but certified that the retreat was not to begin until 9:30 that night.

"The last I saw of Vinogradov was at 9 p. m. on Jan. 6 as he was getting into a tank, which with about seven others moved off toward the border. The tanks moved for five kilometers, I know.

Shot for Inefficiency.

"The first story I heard about Vinogradov was that his tank had been set afire and that he had died in it. But another Russian officer captured on Jan. 14 says Vinogradov was captured near the border by a Russian patrol and that he and his chief of staff were court-martialed and shot for inefficiency. I am inclined to believe the second story."

Soviet Planes Bomb Finnish Cities

and boys, who were fighting the fires, but there were few casualties. At 5:58 all clear was sounded and the sun sank red. The smoke and flames of 130 homes and buildings made the sky redder.

There was a continuous procession into the town of men and boys on bicycles and skis. Farmers, fishermen, and workers from neighboring factories and sawmills had come spontaneously to help. They left their bikes and skis lying along side the streets lined with five foot snowbanks and immediately began to work.

At 6:48 p. m. the moon had not risen but streets and squares were full of people. Ten Russian machines displaying navigation lights flew over the town, dropping another cargo of bombs and also releasing colored lights which swayed back and forth under their little parachutes as they slowly sank toward the ground. What the red, yellow, white, and green lights meant nobody could guess. At 10:40 p. m. all clear again was sounded.

Writing in a Pantry.

The windows of my room were shattered by the explosions and I am writing this dispatch in the restaurant pantry. Women are sweeping up the broken glass while restaurant servants are busy serving milk and sandwiches to all comers.

The kitchen was operated by electricity, consequently there was no warm food except the boiling hot milk served from a few captured Russian field kitchens which were put into service.

It is 4 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit, but it is warm near the burning buildings where many men, women, and children are congregated. Orders were given to housewives not to use stoves and ovens for heating because the concussions of the exploding bombs may have cracked chimneys, making a fresh danger of fires.

As this is being written there have been two more alarms and machines were reported over the city, but no bombs were dropped.

Removal of the inhabitants will continue thruout the night but it appears that many persons are not willing to leave and are accommodating themselves in the homes of friends and unused public buildings.

Sortavala is built on both sides of a small bay on Lake Ladoga. The soviet bombers covered the town thoroly, for there was scarcely a street which did not contain burning or bombed buildings.

The greatest event of the day came at 11 p. m. when, without warning, the electric lights came on again, indicating that the shattered transmission cables had been repaired. I was told, however, that it would be some time before telephone and telegraph communications would be established, so this dispatch is being sent to Helsingfors by courier.

FROZEN SEA STOPS TRAFFIC BETWEEN SWEDEN, GERMANY

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 4. — The coldest winter in 11 years has stopped all sea traffic with Germany over the main routes. Ice is obstructing the Oresund straits and the entrance to Sassnitz harbor.

The train ferry route, Trellebord to Sassnitz, called Germany's lifeline to the north, was kept open until yesterday, with the Swedish ice breaker, Starke, clearing the way for ferries carrying freight to and from Germany. But the Starke was accidentally rammed by the German ferry boat Preussen, and is laid up for repairs.

Ice obstructing Sassnitz is growing more compact hourly and it is doubtful that even if the Starke goes to sea soon she would be able to force a path thru the ice wall. Except for the Copenhagen and Berlin air routes, and occasional passenger steamers by way of Riga, Latvia, communications between Sweden and Germany are virtually cut off.

3 CARS DAMAGED IN GARAGE FIRE.

Fire which started from an oil stove damaged five cars in the garage at 4314 Harrison street early yesterday. Battalion Chief Thomas Lynch estimated damage to the cars and garage at $1,000.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

FINNISH COUPLE TELL OF RUSSIAN BOMBING TERROR

Two Arrive in Chicago; Describe Invasion.

Three weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bjorksten left their home near Helsingfors, Finland, where for a month and a half they had been in peril from Russian bombardment. Yesterday, after a journey by land, air, and sea, they arrived in Chicago and told their story.

"I am too old to fight, so we came to the peace of this great country," said Bjorksten.

Bjorksten, who is 70 years old, retired a year ago as head of one of Finland's largest insurance companies. He and his wife will live here with their son, John, a chemist, and the latter's wife at 450 Wrightwood avenue.

Wife Tells of Air Travel.

"We can tell nothing that might give away any secrets of our country," Mrs. Bjorksten said. "We left my father's estate in southern Finland and went to Stockholm by airplane and train. The trip was not unpleasant, but I can't give you any details of where we went in Finland for fear information might get to the Russians.

"We stopped one night in a hotel in Finland and asked whether it would be safe to sleep there. The porter laughed and said the Russian bombers never came before 10 a. m.

Bombs Shake Cellar.

"They didn't come the next day until after lunch. When the alarm was sounded we all hurried down to the third basement. There were about 200 of us, including many newspaper reporters.

"We could hear, far away, the bombs. Then one struck a house two doors from the hotel. Even the doors into our deep cellar were blown open. Every one stood up.

"Was I afraid? You do not feel fear so much as a desire to get deeper into the earth. When we went up into the hotel again all the windows had been blown out and it was 25 degrees below zero indoors."

Guns and Planes Needed.

"The Russians are trying to terrorize the Finnish people behind the lines because they can't win against our great leaders and soldiers," she asserted. "The Russians slaughter innocent people, but they do not make them afraid. The people only get angrier and more determined to fight."

The Bjorkstens told of another occasion when they saw seven Russian bombers near Helsingfors. They said one Finnish fighter went up and shot down six of the bombers. Then two other Finnish fighters shot down the remaining bomber.

"The first Finnish fighter was like a hawk in the sky," Mrs. Bjorksten said. "The Russians couldn't run away. The fighters kept dropping on the bombers' backs until all the Russian planes were downed."

KICKS OUT WINDOW; ARRESTED.

Neighbors complained yesterday when Frank Graiknis, a WPA worker, kicked out a window in his room at 1316 Madison street. Graiknis said he wanted some fresh air, but police arrested him for disorderly conduct.

POLES SLIP OUT OF CAMPS; TAKE UP ARMS AGAIN

Join Forces in Near East and France.

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 4 (AP).—Almost under the noses of German agents, remnants of Poland's shattered army are finding ways of returning to the war against Germany.

German consular representatives have protested that 500 Poles a day are leaving internment camps in Hungary and Rumania and are setting out either for the growing Polish legion in France or the French forces in Syria.

"The number is between 50 and 100 daily," a Polish spokesman said, however. "All go as civilians, but they naturally are anxious to serve their country again."

German Pressure.

Polish legations in Budapest and Bucharest operating without interruption since the war began supplying papers to get their citizens across international boundaries. Money for civilian clothes to replace old uniforms and for train fare comes from less official sources.

Last October relief agencies estimated 60,000 Polish soldiers along with 20,000 civilians had taken refuge in Hungary and Rumania. After several thousand officers and men had slipped away into France German pressure drastically curtailed this traffic.

Eases Refugee Problem.

Some sources here now say Hungary and Rumania are only too glad to let the refugee problem solve itself by departure of the Poles despite German displeasure. At any rate in January whole companies of Poles succeeded in getting permission to travel abroad.

FRENCH DEFEAT GERMAN SCOUTS IN SHARP FIGHT

PARIS, Feb. 4 (AP).—The British-French high commands' communique on western front activities tonight stated:

"Early this morning a sharp encounter with an enemy scouting party turned to our advantage."

The morning communique said:

[The German communique said: "In the west no special events."]

Irish Cardinal Dispenses with Fasting During Lent

ARMAGH, Northern Ireland, Feb. 4 (AP).—Cardinal Joseph MacRory, primate of all Ireland and archbishop of Armagh, today absolved the Catholic archdiocese from obligation to fast during the coming Lent in "view of the many privations brought on by war."

BALKANS EXTEND ENTENTE SEVEN YEARS; ADJOURN

Declare for Peace and Greater Trade.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 4 (AP).—Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, Greece, and Turkey officially closed a three day Balkan entente conference today by announcing a determination to stay out of the war and improve trade relations among themselves.

A communique at the ceremonial ending of the meeting declared the entente would be extended for a seven year period and the four nations would "organize commercial exchange inside the entente."

Other points in the communique were interpreted by foreign observers as confirming the belief that outside of the economic effort the four powers had not agreed on a close union in the face of war.

Rumania Turned Down.

These observers said Rumania, which came to the conference seeking guarantees against pressure by Germany or Russia, was turned down. The communique said only the four powers would "watch" in common "over the safeguarding of the rights of each of them to independence and to national territory."

The word "guarantee," foreign observers pointed out, was conspicuous by its absence. The communique declared in part:

"Exchanges of views between members of the permanent council held in a cordial and confident atmosphere permitted them unanimously to recognize:

"1. The common interests of the four states in the maintenance of peace, order and security in southeastern Europe.

"2. Their firm decision to pursue their resolutely peaceful policy in maintaining strictly their positions in regard to the present conflict so as to preserve this part of Europe from war.

Will to Remain United.

"3. Their will to remain united within the entente which is pursuing only its own ends and which is directed against nobody and to watch in common over the safeguarding of the right of each of them to independence and to national territory.

"4. Their sincere desire to keep and develop friendly relations with neighboring states in a conciliatory spirit of mutual understanding and peaceful collaboration.

"5. The necessity of tightening and perfecting economic and communication bonds among the Balkan states in organizing commercial exchange inside the entente.

"6. Prolongation of the Balkan pact for a new legal period of seven years beginning Oct. 2, 1941.

"7. The decision of the four ministers of foreign affairs to keep close contact among themselves until the next ordinary session of the permanent council in Athens in the month of February, 1941."

AMERICAN UNITS MAN 22 AMBULANCES FOR DUTY ON FRENCH FRONT

PARIS, Feb. 4 (AP).—Twenty-two American ambulances were blessed today on the eve of the departure of the Pershing section of the American Volunteers Ambulance corps for the front. The ceremony, held before the American church in Paris, was attended by French and American diplomatic and military representatives.

Dr. James V. Sparks. [Acme Photo.]

Twenty of the 22 ambulances will head for the front tomorrow under the leadership of Dr. James V. Sparks, president of the American Ambulance corps and a veteran of the world war. With Dr. Sparks will be 30 drivers and stretcher bearers, all Americans.

Msgr. Jean Gaston, who represented Cardinal Verdier, archbishop of Paris, in dedicating the unit, said:

FACTORIES SHUT BY SHORTAGE OF COAL IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Feb. 4 (AP).—A coal shortage—due to bad weather which disrupted traffic—has shut down some steel and cotton plants in Britain as well as leaving many homes without fuel. The mayor of Manchester telegraphed the minister of mines emphasizing the "desperate positions" of the citizens in his city. Manufacturing plants forced to shut down are in Sheffield.

In Glasgow police distributed free logs from trees felled in seven public parks to ease the shortage. Huge stocks of coal were awaiting delivery in the south Yorkshire mine fields but transport was slow.

GEN. AGUINALDO WARNS FILIPINOS OF 'NEW MASTER'

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 5 Monday (AP).—Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, who was leader in the Philippine insurrection, said today the Filipinos "might get a new master" should difficulties break out between the United States and Japan.

Aguinaldo said he hoped good will would prevail between the two nations.

"Should any difficulties break out between them before independence in 1946," he added, "there is every danger we might not get independence at all. We might get a new master."

Aguinaldo spoke before the Filipino Veterans association, which adopted a resolution reiterating its stand for early independence. He was reelected president of the association.

BRITAIN ADMITS ATTACK ON NINE SHIPS BY NAZIS

Six Make Way to Port; Three Feared Sunk.

LONDON, Feb. 4 (AP).—Britain pieced together today a picture of death and hardship and sinkings inflicted yesterday by German air raiders in the North sea.

Nine vessels were acknowledged to have been attacked off Britain's east coast, but the British declared that German official claims that 14 vessels were sunk were absurd. Germans and British agreed only on the fact that three German warplanes were downed.

Six of the ships admitted to have been attacked reached port. Three apparently were sunk after being abandoned by their crews in the face of machine gun or bomb attacks by planes.

British authorities, revising their previous estimate of 20 German raiders, said no more than 12 planes took part in the forays, and since three were downed it would have been "impossible for so small an attacking force" to sink 14 ships.

Find Three Nazis Dead.

The bodies of three German airmen, one of them wearing an iron cross, were washed ashore at Drubridge bay in Northumberland. They were believed to be the crew of a German bomber shot down off Tynemouth yesterday.

The British steamer Harlech Castle rescued four of the crew of another bomber shot down in the North sea. One German died aboard ship and the fifth of the German crew was drowned.

Unofficial figures on British, French, and neutral shipping losses disagreed with the German claim that 145,603 tons had been sunk between Jan. 21 and 31. Estimates in London said 73,027 tons were sunk in that period, divided thus: Neutrals, 16 ships totaling 46,475 tons; Britain, 7, aggregating 18,236 tons; France, 3, totaling 8,316 tons.

Raider "Pretty Decent."

The crew of eight from the 400 ton British steamer Harley arrived at an east coast port after being rescued by a fishing boat which was guided to the scene by a royal air force plane.

Capt. Edward Willey said a German plane machine gunned the Harley's forecastle, dropped a bomb ahead of her, and then returned to drop additional bombs. The crew rowed five hours before being rescued.

Survivors said "the bomber was pretty decent" to give them time to take to a lifeboat.

Six Missing from Raft.

Six of 10 crew members of the Belgian steamer Charlotte were missing following an attempt to reach land on a raft during the night. Four made land, but hope dwindled for the others when the raft and one body were washed ashore.

Fifteen survivors from the 3,877 ton British steamer Kildale, which sank after a bomb crashed into the engine room, were landed at an eastern port. They reported that six crew members were killed.

The Norwegian steamer Tempo, 629 tons, was sunk after a machine gun attack that killed at least four of her 14 crew members.

The 823 ton British collier Yewdale was machine gunned a mile off the coast by two planes. The Yewdale was found to have suffered little damage when she was brought to harbor, but her captain had been killed by machine gun fire and three crewmen had been injured.

The Rose of England, a 223 ton trawler, was attacked in the same area. It came to port little damaged.

Steamer Safe After Attack.

The 3,431 ton steamer Corland reached port yesterday after coming thru an aircraft attack.

The Swedish steamer Mertainen, 4,531 tons, reached port and reported she had been machine gunned and bombed yesterday. One bomb hit her, but no one was injured.

The 7,050 ton Greek steamer, Nicolaou Zografia, reached port today with one of her crew suffering from an injury received yesterday during a raid by a German bomber. Crewmen said British pursuit planes roared out from the coast to drive off the attacker.

Germans Tell of Attacks.

BERLIN, Feb. 4 (AP).—Acknowledging that three planes failed to return from North sea raids yesterday, the German high command today insisted that nine merchant ships under convoy, four British patrol ships, and a minesweeper were sunk.

The German official news agency, DNB, said the first of yesterday's raids came when German bombers sighted three British minesweepers off Kinnaird Head, on the northeast Scottish coast. One was sunk, the agency said.

Three convoys of merchantmen protected by British destroyers, auxiliary vessels, and submarines next were sighted off Newcastle, Flamborough Head, and northeast of the Humber estuary. All immediately were attacked, the agency said, and nine merchant ships and four patrol boats sunk.

Despite especially vigorous antiaircraft action, German flyers were said to have pressed attack after attack, scattering the merchant ships, which zigzagged desperately to avoid bombs.

Near the coast British pursuit planes joined the battle. Two German planes were shot down, presumably over the sea. One badly damaged German plane made an emergency landing on British soil.

Other Ships Damaged.

A communique of the German high command declared:

"As previously announced by a special bulletin, the German air force, carrying out a scouting patrol over the North sea Feb. 3, attacked British men of war and armed or convoyed merchant ships and, despite the heaviest antiaircraft and counterattack defense, sank a minesweeper, four outpost boats, and nine merchantmen.

"Numerous other armed steamers were partially or severely damaged. All the ships sunk were attacked while in British convoy.

"Three of our planes did not return from the flight.

Saved by Violin

Katherine Stepien with violin after her return to New York.

New York, Feb. 4.—On her arrival here last week, Katherine Stepien, Polish girl who first came to the United States in 1914, brought with her the violin which may have saved her life. She had booked passage on the liner Athenia to return to the United States after visiting in Lublin, then canceled it to return there from Warsaw to get her violin which she had forgotten. German bombers attacked Lublin while she was there the second time, but she got away, and escaped the sinking of the Athenia.

ENVISAGE BRITAIN OF TEN DISTRICTS IN ZONING SCHEME

Growth of London Area a Disturbing Factor.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 4.—When this war is over the United Kingdom may be replanned on drastically changed lines. It is possible the country may be divided into 10 regional areas, each with a regional capital such as London, Birmingham, Bristol, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle, Edinburgh, and Glasgow.

That solution is thought by some authorities to be one that would cope with the grave problems raised by a report of a royal commission on distribution of industrial population.

Thickly Populated Area.

It is feared that London and adjacent counties which already have a population of 12 million, or nearly one-third of the whole country, will grow so that in due course as many as 24 million people may be living within 30 miles of Charing Cross. That, it is contended, would be the result of muddled, chaotic, and unplanned development.

Planners say that this is dangerous strategically, for such concentration would be an obvious target for the enemy, and from a social and health standpoint it has many objections.

If the regional solution is adopted laws would have to be passed prohibiting industries from setting up in London unless they could make out a very convincing case for doing so.

Educational Facilities.

Town life is recognized even in rural England as an essential feature of civilization because it offers wide educational facilities, general diversity of employment, hospitals, and other health services, theaters, and social amenities. But the trouble here is that the country is overurbanized and obsolete laws still exist on the books which practically compel the people to live in towns in order to supply labor for factories.

A ministry of reconstruction, which some would like to see set up at once to anticipate postwar problems, might deal with this question, it is said.

In connection with this suggestion for reorganization, on a regional basis, it is recalled that wartime regulations already established 10 regions, in charge of social commissioners, which correspond in a way to the German scheme of districts.

FINDS WIFE SHOT TO DEATH.

Charles Hummel found his wife dead of a bullet wound when he returned to their apartment at 30 North Lavergne avenue yesterday. A revolver lay near. Hummel said his wife, who was 47 years old, had been ill.

10 LABOR LEADERS UNITE IN STINGING NEW DEAL REBUKE

Demand End of Useless 'Experimentation.'

taxes is the ultimate consumer, and the worker and the worker's family must and do pay a large part of industry's taxes in everything they consume."

What industry needs to succeed—ample and continuing financing, satisfactory supplies of raw materials, satisfied labor, public confidence, and reasonable taxation and profits—have been latent in the last seven years, the statement said.

Banks, instead of providing industry and business with capital, have been compelled, it was asserted, to finance the federal government. Between 1926 and December, 1937, the percentage of government securities held by banks compared with commercial loans was said to have increased from 15 to 75 per cent.

In conclusion the statement considered the multitude of public and semi-public corporations set up under the New Deal, asserting they have gone into the states to weaken their authority and financial soundness.

Competition Reviewed.

"Federal lending corporations have competed with their financial institutions," say the labor leaders. "Federal building corporations have competed with their private builders. Federal utility authorities have competed with state regulated utilities. Steadily and surely they have undermined the sharp line between state and federal authority to increase the concentration of power in Washington.

"The hour has come for Americans to recognize the dangers that confront them and to join in a united effort to halt the drift toward national insolvency, industrial collapse, and the extension of opportunity for the Americans of today and tomorrow."

Green Attacks "Vicious Circle."

Altho there was no session of the executive council of the A. F. of L. today, President William Green addressed a forum in the Tamiami Temple Methodist church. He asserted that the great job confronting the American people is to find a way out of the vicious economic circle of acute unemployment and industrial and agricultural overproduction. The economic machine must be mastered, he said, but there must be no surrender of democratic rights.

"I believe that American industry will shift into gear and start rolling as soon as the government shows it the green light," Green added. "Turning on the green light does not mean obliterating the white light of progress.

Business men feel they have no assurance for the future. That assurance must be forthcoming quickly, in the public interest, and for the sake of the millions who are suffering because there are not enough jobs to go around."

15TH BLAZE SET IN WAUKEGAN; INTENSIFY VIGIL

Synagogue Is Fired; Seek Phantom.

Church member vigilantes intensified their watch last night after Waukegan's phantom firebug had struck again. Early yesterday he set fire to the Agudas Achim Jewish orthodox synagogue in Lake street near County street in the suburb. Firemen saved the synagogue after the fire had caused $1,500 damage.

The synagogue was the third house of worship that the incendiary has fired since he began his depredations Sept. 22. Yesterday's fire was the 15th for which he is blamed. Losses he has caused total $46,500.

Police suspect the firebug may be a madman with a hatred for religious organizations. Members have been volunteering as all night guards in several Waukegan churches since the attacks on churches began.

One Church Destroyed.

The most disastrous of the fires was one which destroyed the First Congregational church, Grand avenue and Utica street, on Nov. 19, with a loss of $22,325. On Nov. 26 the arsonist tried to burn the Trinity Lutheran church, at Oak and Liberty streets, but it was saved.

Church members said they would continue to keep watch nightly despite the revelation of a curious circumstance by Chief Adolph Francke of the fire department and Chief William Blaylock of the police:

The firebug always starts his fires on Sunday or Thursday—most of them early in the morning.

Same Method Used.

Francke and Blaylock said the incendiary touches off the fires with a roll of newspapers, about 10 inches in diameter, in which he sometimes places a stick of wood.

If possible he starts the fires on the outside of the building, altho he sometimes raises a window and drops the torch inside.

On several occasions he has started more than one fire. Firemen believe he lured them to the first fire on these occasions so the second one might get a better start before they could reach it.

GEN. MA'S 'GHOST' BOBS UP TO GIVE JAPS THE JITTERS

Chinese Hero Fights Foe in Mongolia.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 5 Monday (AP).—Japan's northern army, pressing deep into Suiyuan province in Inner Mongolia, is engaged in one of the greatest "ghost" hunts in history.

In subzero weather, the Japanese were reported pursuing across the desolate snow-covered Ordos plains a Chinese warrior they officially announced was killed eight years ago.

Gen. Ma Chan-shan.

A thorn in the side of the invaders for more than a year Gen. Ma officially was reported by the Japanese to have been killed in action in northern Manchuria. So sure were the Japanese of his death that they sent to Emperor Hirohito what they said were his medals and uniforms.

Becomes Annoying "Corpse."

According to Japanese belief, anything reported to the emperor becomes "irrevocable." Hence the Japanese army leaders were unable to admit that Gen. Ma was alive. Recently he has become a very annoying "corpse," Chinese say.

Ma's troops, organized as a "dare-to-die corps" to oppose the Japanese conquest of Suiyuan province, boldly attempted late in December to recapture Paotouchen, Suiyuan capital.

Chinese soldiers actually entered the walled city before the Japanese rallied and drove them back.

In an effort to destroy Ma's forces, the Japanese last week organized a punitive expedition, dispatching one column westward from Paotouchen and sending the other across northwestern Shansi province.

Princesses Lead Cavalry.

Gen. Ma's troops are reported to include two cavalry detachments commanded by two 21-year-old Mongol princesses.

Today the Japanese engaged in pursuit of Ma reported the capture of Yangkiatien, 220 miles west of Paotouchen, after destroying Chinese bases at Wuyuan.

Fifty thousand Chinese troops under Ma and Gen. Fu-Tso-yi, Suiyuan province military commander, were said to be in flight across the plain as the Japanese operations in this sector carried the invaders to the deepest point in their penetration into the continent.

The only other current major operations were reported almost 2,000 miles to the south in Kwangsi province, where the Japanese said they had surrounded 50,000 Chinese troops attempting to recapture Nanning and inflicted "heavy losses" on them.

Where Japs Hunt Ma

(Story in adjoining column.)

Japanese troops yesterday were penetrating deep into Suiyuan province (black area), Inner Mongolia, in hunt for Gen. Ma Chan-shan, Chinese "ghost fighter," officially reported killed eight years ago.

CAR TOPPLES OFF CLIFF IN MEXICO; CHICAGOAN HURT

Simon Gold, restaurant owner at 812 Roosevelt road, is in the Henrotin hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in a harrowing automobile accident in Mexico last week. He is 50 years old, and lives at 426 Surf street.

Gold and his wife were motoring with a guide in a mountain region near Mexico City when their car left the narrow road and toppled 100 feet over a cliff. A huge tree caught their car and prevented it from falling another 100 feet.

Gold suffered neck and spinal injuries, and as soon as his condition permitted returned with his wife to Chicago by plane and train. His wife escaped with bruises. The guide suffered a skull fracture.

HARDWARE DEALER DIES.

Harvard, Ill., Feb. 4 [Special].—Funeral services for John C. Harris, 69 years old, engaged in the hardware business here for 42 years, will be held Tuesday afternoon. He died this morning.

COLLAPSES A DAY AFTER CRASH AND DIES OF INJURIES

Victim's Chest Crushed, Lung Punctured.

Frank Seasock, 26 years old, a shipping clerk, was driving in South Park way Saturday night when his automobile struck a safety island at 45th street. Seasock, who lives at 5643 South Marshfield avenue, visited two hospitals for emergency treatment and then went home.

Yesterday morning he said he felt all right, but later complained of feeling ill and went to bed. An hour later he died. An examination showed his lung had been punctured and his chest crushed, apparently from striking the steering wheel.

Otto Muenkel, 57 years old, died in the Lutheran Memorial hospital after his car and a taxicab collided at Sawyer and Dickens avenues. Muenkel, a roofer, lived at 1810 North Albany avenue. The cab was driven by Clarence Wirtz, 1647 North Meade avenue.

John Smith, 25 years old, 4510 Emerald avenue, a laborer, died last night in St. Bernard's hospital of a skull fracture suffered earlier in the day when an automobile in which he was a passenger skidded on the slushy pavement into a viaduct pillar of the Rock Island railroad at 63d and Wallace streets. The driver, John Craven, 23, of 4350 Emerald avenue, was not hurt.

Two Cars Skid Off Road.

Snow that hid the ice when it fell was blamed for two accidents on the north shore. Both cars skidded into trees.

Charles Injasoulian, 44, of Racine, Wis., was driving one car which skidded at Sheridan and Beach roads in Waukegan. He was taken to St. Therese's hospital at Waukegan with his wife, Elsie; their daughter, Eva, 16, and their son, Peter, 12.

The other car was driven by Jerome Buresch, 66, of 2100 Cuyler avenue, Berwyn. He and his wife, Clara, 60, were taken to the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest after the accident in Waukegan road near Deerpath road west of Lake Forest.

An unidentified man about 45 years old died in Walther Memorial hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when he was struck by a hit and run car at Humboldt boulevard and Armitage avenue.

Hold Two in Death Quiz.

Two men were held for investigation into the death of Emil Goetz, 40, of 1811 North Winchester avenue, a laborer and war veteran, whose body was found pinned beneath the front wheels of their car, parked in an alley at the rear of 1348 North Paulina street.

Stanley Przytulski, 20, of 1365 Bauwans street, owner of the car, and Clem Polaski, 23, of 5867 Gunnison street, who were visiting friends at the Paulina street address, said that they had been in no accident and knew nothing of the body. Police said Goetz, who still suffered from war wounds, may have collapsed in the alley and that the car may have passed partly over him as it was brought to a stop.

An unidentified man about 45 years old, evidently the victim of a hit and run car, died last night in County hospital. He was found unconscious at 2:30 a. m. at 118th street and Perry avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 107 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 80 were killed in Chicago, where 2,137 were injured in the same period. There were eight traffic deaths in Chicago in the preceding 24 hours.

Five Finnish Lumberjacks on Way to Fight Russians

THOMAS ASSAILS FOREIGN POLICY; SUCCEEDS BROAH

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4 (AP).—John Thomas, Idaho Republican, who will succeed to the senate seat of the late William E. Borah, spoke out today against the administration's foreign policy in language reminiscent of his famed predecessor.

The 65 year old banker-sheep raiser, who served in the senate from 1928 to 1933, told reporters upon his arrival in Washington that he feared that administration policies were leading the nation toward war.

"The way to keep the United States out of war," he said, "is to stop sending dollars abroad."

Thomas said he was opposed to extending the reciprocal trade program because agreements now in effect were ruining the farmer. He declined to say whether he thought the United States should lend money to Finland to combat the Russian invasion.

The Idahoan, who was appointed to the senate by Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen, will take the oath of office Tuesday when the senate reconvenes. He said he had no immediate plans for legislation.

A CANVASS OF CANVASES

By CALEB

LEISURE hours of art lovers, just now, are being most rewardingly invested in our second-floor Picture Galleries, whose interiors are devoted to exhibits of the 16th Annual Hoosier Salon. "Better than ever" seems to be the unanimous verdict of critics, patrons and visitors alike.

Feature room of the exhibit, as in the past three years, is the one occupied exclusively by Indiana scenes. Landscape wields a universality of appeal that charms all comers—that fraternizes the whole world at the beauty touchstone of Nature. To her the painter goes for all human healing and hallowing of spirit—from his communion with our common Alma Mater brings back to us clean hills and quiet woodlands; old roads that wind pleasantly into shadowed valleys; dunes warmly framed in blue sky and bluer water; many-colored and tranquilizing countrysides. Critics may quarrel, and "isms" come and go; but let the Open Spaces sit for their portrait, and Art's fineness never strays. . . .

Two hundred and fourteen artists competed for hanging of their work in this Salon; one hundred and fifty-five qualified. Competently grouped for the viewer are 252 total exhibits, including 16 sculptors represented by 23 pieces of sculpture and woodcarvings. Awards totaled 23 in number and $3,550 in value—three of which went to sculptors. Outstanding prize of the occasion, the donation of John Shaffer for $500, was awarded to Walt Louderback, of Santa Fe, N. M., whose winning canvas is titled Morning Concert, Aix les Thermes, France.

Annually since 1925, the Salon has chosen the Field Picture Galleries for its exhibitions. The present collection is notably comprehensive and varied, with capable selection that includes etchings, oils and watercolors, landscapes, figures and still life . . . whose vigorously executed subjects are distinctly indicative that creative talent, sound composition, flair for the picturesque, and mastery of medium are as evident in American art as ever.

In professional appraisals of these canvases, critical standards have their own place. But among purchasers themselves personal taste is still paramount, and these products of artists born, studying, or resident, in Indiana display an excellence that remembers the prospective owner, while not forgetting the connoisseur. The goodness of good painting is timeless; and in many a Midwestern home these canvases will verify that axiom, long years after the Hoosier Salon's closing date of February tenth.

COURTNEY TURNS LIGHT ON 'CRIME AND POLITICS'

Pictures Discoveries of 'Fix' Case Aftermath.

admission by two women jurors that money had been given to them. A go-between, Marvin Olson, said he was told "the syndicate is interested in the defense of Orlando and Vinci."

Policeman's Record Revealed.

Then the name of State Policeman John Howe came into the investigation. One woman juror said Howe had told her she would be rewarded if she voted to free Orlando and Vinci. Courtney learned that Howe had a criminal record. Howe was indicted on four robbery charges in 1930.

Courtney found that Howe did not go to prison. He was found insane and sent to the Kankakee state hospital, from which he was permitted to escape a few weeks later. The charges against him were dropped. They since have been reinstated, and Howe also has been indicted for complicity in the jury bribery plot.

The prosecutor in the 1930 case was A. L. Marovitz, who since has been elected state senator. [Marovitz served as attorney for Sam Vinci in obtaining the conditional pardon from Gov. Horner.]

Smith Assumes Blame.

In an investigation ordered by Gov. Horner to find out who put Howe on the state police force, armed him with a star and a gun altho he still was legally insane, State Director of Public Works F. Lynden Smith assumed the blame.

Yesterday Courtney was considering the pardon granted to Sam Vinci. He was trying to learn what arguments were advanced by Senator Marovitz for turning the convicted killer loose. This is the second time in a few weeks that the prosecutor has been in contact with the state senator.

The first instance came when Courtney began investigating the murder of Marinus Hvid, a north side garage owner who was beaten fatally by goons. A garage owners' organization had expelled Hvid. The expulsion brought union trouble to Hvid, it was recalled, and Courtney still is seeking evidence of a financial arrangement between the union and the garage owners' association, but Senator Marovitz, attorney for the association, denies such a relationship exists.

On City Pay Roll.

Courtney next discussed the revelation that an ex-convict served on the grand jury that heard the gambling cases and indicted Judge McGarry. Courtney believed this incident is significant but not of importance in the present inquiry. Like Sam Orlando, this grand juror was a precinct captain, Courtney said, and was on a city pay roll until a few weeks ago.

"We learned of the ex-juror's past criminal record [he served in Pontiac for robbery and was paroled in 1924] within a day after his selection for service on the grand jury," Courtney said. "We watched him thruout the month. We let him know he was being watched.

"After the jury was discharged we questioned him and he admitted his record. He did not withhold evidence of his past, because he wasn't asked by the jury commissioners who qualified him. As he had violated no law there was no prosecution."

Courtney said the grand jury that month had devoted much of its time to investigating syndicate gambling in the city. As a result of that activity, it was recalled, Courtney sought and obtained the coöperation of the Illinois Bell Telephone company in denying telephone service to handbooks.

Indictment Is Quashed.

The indictment voted by that grand jury against Judge McGarry subsequently was quashed by Judge Joseph Graber of the Criminal court on the grounds that a judge's actions are only subject to review by the legislature during impeachment proceedings.

[Inasmuch as this ex-juror is considered by some authorities as having rehabilitated himself, his name is being withheld, as well as the man whose C. I. O. sponsorship put him on the pay roll of S. L. Nudelman, state finance director.]

The downstate case involving the latest "rehabilitated ex-convict" was not part of Courtney's investigation. Nudelman said he was considering what should be done, and meanwhile was standing back of his assistant.

The man's record included an 18 month term in the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., for violation of the air commerce act. He admitted dropping nine bombs from an airplane over the Providence, Ky., coal fields in 1930. A strike was in progress and efforts were being made to unionize the workers.

"A further evidence of the power of the men my office is fighting is in the fact that another one of Vinci's brothers is a deputy sheriff," Courtney added, in summing up what has transpired.

Gov. Horner's illness prevented any inquiries being made concerning representations made to him in behalf of Sam Vinci. The fact that he was to be freed was not announced by the parole board in its monthly news releases. [Later it was explained that Vinci was freed so he could go to a hospital in Wisconsin for treatment for epilepsy.]

Sam Vinci is the third of the Vinci brothers to figure in violent deaths in Chicago. His brother James was accused with Mike Carozzo and "Big Tim" Murphy, labor leaders, of the murder of Maurice [Mossy] Enright in 1920. Tried separately, he was convicted, they were acquitted. On a new trial Vinci was freed.

Then, on July 18, 1925, Jimmy Vinci and Machine Gun Joe Granata fought a pistol duel in the street at Wells and 29th streets. Both were killed.

On Nov. 19 of the same year Mike Vinci was shot down in the street at 31st and Dearborn streets. Before he died he blamed Joseph "Peppy" Genero. Genero was arrested and an inquest was called on Nov. 21 in an undertaker's shop at 2418 Lowe avenue.

John Minatti, a friend of Mike Vinci, was called to the witness stand. He said he did not know Mike Vinci.

Slain in Inquest Room.

This statement enraged Sam Vinci. He screamed at the witness and called him a liar. He was restrained and disappeared from the undertaker's shop for a few moments. Then he returned with a pistol and fired several times at Minatti, killing him.

Sam Vinci pleaded not guilty and offered a defense of temporary insanity. His family said he was epileptic. The jury found him guilty of murder and fixed his punishment at 26 years. He started serving his sentence early in 1926, and with the usual time off for good behavior would have been eligible for release in 1941.

Late in October of 1939 Sam Vinci was seen on the streets of Chicago. He frequently was in the loop and flashed considerable money, according to a report to the police, and he is said to have bragged that his release cost $10,000. He did not say to whom it was paid. He is said to have added that the "sanitarium gag" was a lot of bunk.

Police Captain Edward K. Kelly, then of the Deering station, made inquiries at the home of Charles Vinci, the deputy sheriff, at 718 West 25th place. The Vinci family said Sam had been sent to a farm in Michigan.

At that time the state authorities made their first announcement regarding the release of Sam Vinci. They said he was suffering from cataracts on both eyes, tuberculosis, and epilepsy. The condition of his pardon was that he be kept in a sanitarium at Oconomowoc, Wis., for at least a year.

His return to Illinois was said to have been a violation of the condition of the pardon. Parole authorities obtained a warden's warrant for his recapture. Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan was asked to aid in finding Sam and putting him back in prison.

Recently Courtney made public the record of a second state highway policeman to have a criminal past. This man was said to have lived down that past, according to his superiors and his political sponsors.

"And that," said State's Attorney Courtney, "is a glimpse of what we are up against when we start to break the alliance of crime and politics!"

Quake Hits Turkey

Arrow points to area shaken with loss of many lives by new earthquakes in Turkey.

ANKARA, Turkey, Feb. 4 (AP).—Forty-five persons were reported killed and scores injured in an earthquake during the night which destroyed two villages in Erzincan, northeastern Turkey. The Erzincan region bore the brunt of last December's earthquake disaster in which temblors, severe weather, and subsequent floods killed more than 30,000 persons. First reports of the new shock did not say how large an area was affected.

IRISH PRESS DEMAND ON BRITAIN TO SAVE TWO DOOMED TO HANG

DUBLIN, Feb. 4.—Irish agitation demanding that Britain reprieve Peter Barnes and James MacCormick, young Irishmen whose execution in the Birmingham jail is set for Wednesday morning, today developed into a national movement.

Barnes and MacCormick were tried on charges of being involved in a bomb explosion at Coventry last August in which five persons were killed. Only intervention by the British home secretary could save them. Irishmen contend the men were wrongly convicted.

Thousands at a massmeeting in Dublin today adopted a resolution urging that Barnes and MacCormick be reprieved to avert the risk of "extinguishing all hope of enduring peace between the Irish nation and Britain."

'ROTTEN BOROUGH SABATH' GIVES HIS ALL TO NEW DEAL

One of Five Illinoisans to Vote Against Dies.

[This is the first in a series of articles reviewing the records of the five Illinois congressmen who were among the 21 who recently opposed continuation of the Dies investigation. All five are candidates for reëlection this year.]

BY HAROLD SMITH.

The vote of Representative A. J. Sabath against continuing the Dies committee investigation into un-American activities was only one of numerous acts that have won him the semi-official indorsement of the communist party.

Representative A. J. Sabath. [Acme, Photo.]

On Jan. 23 congress voted, 345 to 21, to extend the life of the Dies committee for one year, later by a unanimous vote making $75,000 available for the job.

Sabath and four other Democratic congressmen from Illinois helped make up the tiny bloc that wanted to kill the inquiry. The others were Arthur W. Mitchell [1st] and Raymond S. McKeough [2d] of Chicago, Frank W. Fries [21st] of Carlinville, and Kent E. Keller [25th] of Ava.

Called "Half a Congressman."

Sabath has represented the 5th [Chicago] district in congress since 1906. He is regarded as the outstanding beneficiary of the "rotten boroughs" system caused by the failure of the Illinois legislature to reapportion the Illinois congressional districts since 1901. His district, which includes parts of the 20th, 21st, 22d, 24th, and 25th wards, is one of the least populous in the state, with a population of only 140,481 in 1930. The average population of Cook county districts is 408,000.

The district had actually 50,000 less population in 1930 than it had in 1901. As a result of this disproportionate representation, the dean of the house has been referred to as "Half a Congressman Sabath." It is to the small population which he represents, plus the indorsement of the Democratic machine, that he is said to owe his easy reëlections.

Early last year Sabath was praised in the Daily Worker, official organ of the communist party, for opposing a 50 million dollar slash in the proposed appropriation of 150 millions for the Work Projects administration.

"Mr. Sabath has shown the right attitude in the WPA fight," wrote Adam Lapin, Washington correspondent for the Daily Worker. "It is a pity that more members did not join him in the fight against Tory members for an adequate appropriation for the downtrodden of the country."

Sabath was an early advocate of extending the official recognition of the United States to soviet Russia. In 1932 he demanded that President Hoover establish diplomatic relations with the soviets, giving as his reason the supposed commercial benefits that would ensue.

Opposes Sit Strike Quiz.

He was one of the representatives who voted against a congressional investigation of sitdown strikes, the more notorious of which were conducted by the Congress of Industrial Organizations, labor group whose tieups with the communists the Dies committee has brought to light.

He cast his vote against the house resolution calling for an inquiry into the National Labor Relations board, which has been widely accused of favoritism toward the C. I. O.

Sabath's whole voting record in congress in recent years has marked him as one of the most consistent of the administration's rubber stamps. Seldam has he cast a vote conflicting with the expressed desires of President Roosevelt.

Votes for Housing Bill.

He voted for the 1937 housing bill that brought the government into competition with private builders. In the same year he voted for the new agricultural adjustment act. He was for the President's wage-hour bill that brought headaches to employers, and last year he voted for passage of the measure that would have clothed the President with dictatorial powers.

In his other official activities Sabath has drawn much criticism. A notable case was his chairmanship of a house committee appointed in 1934 to investigate bondholders' protective committees. Last July he attempted to file a final report on the committee's work, but the house refused to accept it. Some committee members refused to sign the report on the ground it was libelous.

During the activities of the committee Sabath was called to account on the house floor by a fellow Illinois congressman, Ralph E. Church of Evanston.

Assailed by Church.

Church charged the committee was indulging in "questionable practices." He demanded that Sabath explain benefits derived from the committee's efforts by the law firm of Sabath, Perlman, Goodman & Rein, of which Congressman Sabath was a member.

He declared that the committee hired as aids lawyers who used their status with the committee to obtain exorbitant fees at the expense of the bondholders they were "investigating."

"The chairman [Sabath]," Church said in a speech on the house floor in 1937, "is conducting this committee in such a way that it is no longer proceeding as a fact finding body, but proceeding by stump speeches and wild harangues, fanning the flames of hatred among bondholders, soliciting them to deposit bonds with the committee, and then farming them out to attorneys who present wild and fantastic charges to the courts and in the end petition the court for exorbitant fees."

A Chairman by Seniority.

Sabath has compiled an unimpressive record of accomplishment in congress. His seniority has pushed him into the chairmanship of the important house rules committee, but he is regarded as merely a figurehead in that post. The actual conduct of the committee is in the hands of a combination of Democrats and Republicans who are against Sabath's unquestioning compliance with administration commands.

This was illustrated recently when Sabath tried to block consideration of the resolution calling for extension of the Dies investigation by going to Chicago and refusing to call a meeting of the rules committee.

The other members of the committee met and invoked a seldom used rule which not only would have brought the Dies resolution to the floor but would have virtually removed Sabath as chairman. Sabath returned hastily to Washington and agreed to approval of the resolution.

GUFFEY ASSURED PARTY WILL NOT BACK OPPONENT

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 4 (AP).—United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey, fighting opposition for renomination, was assured tonight he would not be opposed in Pennsylvania's primary by a candidate who carries indorsement of the Democratic state committee.

In an effort to avoid a split within the party, the committee suspended a 10 year old rule requiring indorsement of candidates before each primary. Party leaders were unable to agree on Guffey or a substitute.

The senator announced he would run no matter what course the committee followed. Altho no candidate has come out against Guffey, opponents said one would be placed in the field. State Senator Leo C. Mundy of Luzerne county, said anti-Guffey forces would meet within 10 days to select a candidate and that he would run himself at the April primary if no one else would.

Garner Backers to Battle Roosevelt for Georgia Vote

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 4 (AP).—A rival delegation to the Democratic national convention, chosen "by the people" of Georgia, was promised today by friends of Vice President John Nance Garner if the state Democratic executive committee undertakes to name uninstructed delegates. Challenging opposition of Gov. E. D. Rivers and other Georgia party chiefs to a preferential primary as "a plan to deliver Georgia to President Roosevelt," Edgar B. Dunlap said advocates of a statewide vote would carry their fight to every county in Georgia.

LOST STUDENT FOUND BURIED IN SUBZERO SNOW

Crawford Notch, N. H., Feb. 4 (AP).—Wrapped in blankets and half buried in snow, his face black from cold, Webster N. Jones Jr., 19, Harvard sophomore, was found alive today after being lost 28 hours in below zero temperature on blizzard swept Mount Washington. His toes were badly frost bitten and he was suffering from exposure. Hope of finding the boy alive had been abandoned.

Carried five miles down the Crawford trail by rude stretcher and toboggan, Jones was placed in a waiting Civilian Conservation corps ambulance on the valley floor and taken to Littleton hospital, where he was greeted by his father, Dr. W. N. Jones, director of the college of engineering at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh.

Young Jones became separated from his skiing companion, Karl J. Sax, 20, of Boston, a Harvard senior, on Saturday morning, when a heavy blizzard forced them to abandon their trek to the summit of Mount Washington, highest mountain in this section. Sax, who may lose several fingers because of frost bite, stumbled into a state highway camp here at the base of the mountain yesterday, telling of his companion's plight.

TWO CANDIDATES WILL SPEAK AT LINCOLN MEETING

Honor will be paid to the memory of Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglass at a meeting next Sunday afternoon in the Du Sable High school at 49th and State streets. Arrangements are in charge of former Congressman Oscar De Priest.

Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for United States senator, and Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for governor, will speak. Brooks will review the life of Lincoln, and Lyons that of Douglass, the abolitionist.

FR. COUGHLIN FAILS TO GIVE USUAL RADIO TALK; IT'S MYSTERY

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 4 (AP).—For an unexplained reason the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin failed to make his customary talk on the radio today, and all efforts tonight to ascertain the cause of his absence were unavailing.

A cryptic comment from the radio announcer—"probably events transpiring this week will enlighten you"—was the only suggestion to listeners that the Rev. Mr. Coughlin might have had an extraordinary reason for remaining off the air. For months the priest has broadcast regularly on Sundays, and officials of the chain outlet expressed surprise at his absence today. The announcer, advising hearers to "pay no heed to idle rumors," said: "Be assured Father Coughlin knows what he is doing."

The rectory of the Shrine of the Little Flower, the Rev. Mr. Coughlin's church in Royal Oak, Mich., where he delivers the radio talks, could shed no light on the priest's failure to broadcast. He was not at home and rectory reported he had left this morning without making his intentions known.

CEREMONY OPENS NEW VIADUCT IN LARAMIE AVENUE

The new Laramie avenue viaduct, spanning the Great Western and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks, was opened formally at ceremonies yesterday. The viaduct is 1,600 feet long and has a roadway width of 44 feet, with four lanes. It took 18 months to construct and cost $675,000, half the money coming from the Public Works administration and half from motor fuel taxes. It is intended to relieve overcrowding and provide a convenient outlet to the south and southwest suburban areas. The viaduct extends from Lexington avenue to Roosevelt road.

MISS JACKSON'S NEW CAR LICENSE PLATES ARE GONE

Miss Alice Jackson, 4450 Magnolia avenue, financial secretary of the First Presbyterian church in Evanston, bought license plates for her new automobile Saturday. She asked David Crowe, the church janitor, if he would put the plates on her car at the church curb.

"It's a new gray sedan," she told him.

Crowe went outside. Fifteen minutes later he returned and said the job was done.

But the plates weren't on Miss Jackson's car. It was learned, too late, that they were on the car—of identical model and color—of Burton R. Foss, 3023 Hartzell avenue, Evanston, which also had been parked at the curb. And yesterday there wasn't a thing anybody could do about it because Foss had left town.

HEAT WELLS UP IN 2 REPUBLICAN PRIMARY RACES

Searcy Says He Will 'Tear Aside Sham' Tonight.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The first promises of heat in the Illinois and Cook county Republican primary contests were provided yesterday in statements issued by two candidates, one a contestant for the governorship nomination, the other a prospective entrant in the race for the nomination for state's attorney.

Earl B. Searcy [top] and Mal Coghlan.

State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield announced that in a radio speech over WENR at 6 o'clock tonight he will tear aside some of the "sham" in the governorship race. His opponents in that battle are Dwight H. Green of Chicago and Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville.

"Let's have the real truth about bipartisan politics in Illinois," said the senator in his press release, "If it is to become an issue in this campaign. I'm going to make a sensational speech and I'll let the chips fall where they may.

In Race to Stay, He Says.

"There have been too many false and malicious rumors floating about that I'm planning to withdraw from this primary contest. I want to tell the people of Illinois I'm in this race for governor to stay."

Interest in the Searcy announcement was increased by the fact that Green will speak from the same radio station two hours later. Searcy contracted for his time last Saturday. Some time ago Green signed up for the 15 minute period starting at 8 p. m. every Monday before the primary except next Monday.

The second promise of lively action soon came from Malachy J. Coghlan, better known as "Mal" Coghlan during 10 years as an assistant state's attorney, who sent letters to all Republican leaders in the county and issued a press statement declaring his intention to file soon as a candidate for the Republican nomination for state's attorney.

There already are two contestants for this post, Harry S. Ditchburne and Oscar F. Nelson, judge of the Superior court. Coghlan indicated that his fire would not be aimed at them but at the present administration of the county prosecutor's office. He served four years under State's Attorney John A. Swanson and was retained by Thomas J. Courtney until last March, when he resigned under pressure.

Hopes to Arouse Public.

Coghlan's announcement said that he will become a candidate "in the hope that an aroused public support can and will override the organized activities of the underworld and restore obedience to law and civilized living conditions for our people," and continued:

"I am impelled by the following reasons:

"1. The present day rule of highly organized gangs instead of constituted authority.

"2. The apathy toward and the condonation of vicious crimes of murder and organized violence and the deliberate thwarting of honest investigation and prosecution.

"3. The victimizing of honest labor unions and their officials by the establishment of counter organizations whose only purpose is extortion and the looting of the union treasury.

"4. The extortion of millions of dollars annually by racket groups and associations from business and honest laboring men on the pretense of protection.

"An honest prosecutor need never complain of the failure of other agencies to coöperate. The law grants ample power and authority to eradicate every known antisocial condition. To argue otherwise is sheer hypocrisy."

Frank Eagleton of Springfield, an assistant attorney general from 1925 until 1933, last night announced his candidacy for attorney general on the Republican ticket.

REGARD ILLINOIS AS BATTLEFIELD FOR PRESIDENCY

Horner Candidacy Issue Raised in Capital.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—Illinois, potentially a pivotal state in the 1940 presidential election, figured prominently in conferences of both Democratic and Republican leaders here today.

The Democratic leaders were gathering from the four corners of the country for the meeting tomorrow of the Democratic national committee to call the Democratic national convention for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President.

Two Cities Offer Cash.

It was learned tonight that Chicago virtually has been eliminated from consideration for the place of holding the convention, because of that city's inability to offer the Democratic national committee a bonus for the privilege. The disposition of the party leaders appeared to be to knock down the convention to the highest bidder.

Both San Francisco and Philadelphia are prepared to offer upward of $150,000 in addition to the convention expenses. The committee will select the convention city tomorrow, but probably will leave the date to be fixed after the Republicans name their date on Feb. 16.

Among the arriving Democratic leaders were Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and Patrick A. Nash, Democratic national committeeman for Illinois. They conferred during the afternoon with Senator Scott W. Lucas and arranged to discuss the Illinois situation tomorrow with Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Consider Horner's Health.

Principal aspect of the Illinois situation agitating the Democratic leaders is the health of Gov. Horner. Reports that the governor has suffered a relapse of his long illness have engendered grave concern. The governor has announced his candidacy for renomination. His candidacy has been indorsed by Mayor Kelly and other Illinois Democratic leaders.

If it should appear, however, that the health of the governor arouses doubt of his ability to discharge the duties of his office for another four years and doubt of his ability to make a vigorous campaign, the Democrats would be greatly handicapped in the contest from the start. In the event of Illinois being the pivotal state in the election the choice of the next President might be determined by the outcome of the contest for governor and that contest might be decided by Gov. Horner's health.

Farley Displays Interest.

For these reasons Democratic National Chairman Farley and others at the Democratic G. H. Q. are taking a deep interest in the Illinois situation. It has been rumored that possible alternative candidates for governor are being considered.

Mayor Kelly stated, however, that he knew of no change in the program to renominate the governor. He said he had heard the rumors regarding Mr. Horner's health but during his holiday in Florida from which he is returning had received no direct information concerning the truth or falsity of the reports.

Mr. Nash said he had entered President Roosevelt's name in the Illinois presidential preference primary "because of the widespread demand in Chicago, Cook county, and Illinois for four more years of Roosevelt."

"Did you have the President's consent?" he was asked.

"No, I did not," said Mr. Nash.

"Is your candidate willing?"

"I don't know," replied the Illinois committeeman. "I was merely doing what our people want done when I filed his name in the primary."

Mr. Nash said he has no second choice, remarking: "You can't ride two horses at a time. Of course there are many good men in the party."

Neither Mayor Kelly, who is an original Roosevelt third term boomer, nor Mr. Nash was disturbed by the contention that under the Illinois law it is necessary for a candidate to give his consent in writing to the filing of his name in the primary. It is true that this practice invariably has been observed in the past, they admitted, but insisted that the election board of three Democrats, of whom Gov. Horner is one, has discretionary power to permit exceptions.

They did not doubt that this board will rule that it is unnecessary for candidates to declare themselves in writing. Thus the President will be enabled to run for a third term in the Illinois primary without committing himself to third term ambitions.

Garner May Enter Primary.

Whether there will be opposition to Mr. Roosevelt in the Illinois balloting is uncertain. Close associates of Vice President Garner said tonight that he probably will enter the Illinois contest. A decision will be reached in the next few days, they said.

Mr. Garner, leader of the conservative Democratic opposition to the President, announced some time ago that he will be a candidate for the nomination whether Mr. Roosevelt runs or not. He is already canvassing New York for delegates and will run in the Georgia primary, if there should be one.

Paul V. McNutt of Indiana will not enter the Illinois primary so long as the President is a contestant. His candidacy is entirely contingent upon the elimination of Mr. Roosevelt as a third term possibility.

Up to date the only Republican entrant in the Illinois primary is District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York. The entrance of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan appears doubtful.

HAMILTON RAPS YOUTH CONGRESS; SPURNS ITS BID

Refuses to Name G. O. P. Envoy to Red Meeting.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, has declined to name a representative to attend the meeting of the American Youth congress on Feb. 11 because of the failure of that organization to expel communistic groups from its membership.

John Hamilton.

Answering the request of the executive secretary of the congress to name a representative, Hamilton wrote:

"Until the American Youth congress purges itself of its communistic elements, which, according to the Dies committee, dominate it, I shall not request any Republican to attend a meeting of your organization.

Interested in Problems.

"In saying this, I do not mean in any way to reflect on the several very fine and really American organizations of youth affiliated with the American youth congress. Republicans are deeply interested in the problems of American youth, and as a party we desire, and are working, to bring about conditions in this country under which all American youth shall have an opportunity to go forward to useful and abundant lives.

"But this end cannot be achieved unless our American form of government and our American way of life are preserved. Surely this objective cannot be promoted by an organization which harbors within its ranks —and responds to the dictation of— groups inimical to American representative government and democracy, no matter what professions such an organization might make.

Unmindful of Indictment.

"You must be aware of the judgment passed on the American Youth congress by the Dies committee investigating un-American activities in its report to the house of representatives on Jan. 3, 1940. Tho a month has passed since that report was made, I have seen no indication from any officer of the American Youth congress that steps would be taken to purge the communistic organizations about which the Dies committee complained.

"There is no dispute that the Young Communist league is an integral part of the communist party in this country, which, it has been shown, is directed from Moscow.

"I would not participate in meetings of the American Youth congress, as now constituted, and I would not ask another to do what I would not."

KILLS WIFE AND SELF IN TAVERN; QUARREL OVER MONEY MATTERS

Mrs. Mary Czarnecki, 40 years old, was shot and fatally wounded yesterday by her husband, Thomas, 50, who then ended his own life with a bullet thru the temple. The shooting occurred in the tavern owned by Mrs. Czarnecki at 1621 Huron street. An open ledger found beside Mrs. Czarnecki indicated that the couple had quarreled over money.

Mrs. Czarnecki's son, Edward Herula, 19, was awakened by three shots. He told Lieut. David Schwartz that his mother had married Czarnecki, a metal plater, three months ago, adding, "I suppose this argument was over money matters. My stepfather was obsessed with the get rich quick idea."

BUFFALO FORMS BOARD TO FIGHT SEAWAY SCHEME

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP).—A Port of Buffalo defense committee has been formed to consolidate objections of Niagara frontier industry, agriculture and labor to the proposed St. Lawrence international seaway and power development, Thomas C. O'Brien, a grain company executive, said today.

The committee, of which O'Brien is chairman, was named at a meeting of representatives of waterfront workers, agriculture, elevators, feed and flour mills, canal and lake operators, industries, and retail merchants.

O'Brien, who also heads the marine committee of the chamber of commerce, said the chamber has examined the possible effects of St. Lawrence seaway proposals over several years and has considered those proposals would be harmful to the city.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

NAZI LAW IN AMERICA.

Federal Judge Woodward has refused to issue an injunction putting a Chicago milk distributor out of business for alleged violations of the federal milk marketing order without first granting the defendant a full hearing. His ruling is a victory for the American principle of government under law and a rebuff to the attempt to impose on this country the Nazi system of government by decree.

The defendant in the case was the Wrightwood dairy. It was charged with failure to file the reports required by the milk marketing order imposed on the Chicago milk industry by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who acted under authority of the agricultural marketing agreement act. The charge was set forth in affidavits and complaints filed by N. J. Cladakis, administrator of the marketing order. The government asked a temporary injunction without further proof of its allegations.

Judge Woodward based his ruling on a recent opinion in a similar case by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New York. That court said:

"The purpose of an injunction is to guard against a change in conditions which will hamper or prevent the granting of such relief as may be found proper after the trial of the issues. It ought not to be used to give final relief before a trial. Congress has, indeed, provided for the enforcement of such [marketing] orders and for enjoining their violation. But while equitable remedies have been provided they are still to be exercised in accordance with established equitable procedure."

The difference between Nazi law and the procedure that the government attempted to follow was one of degree only. In Germany the reichstag has degenerated to a sounding board for propaganda. The law is what Hitler says it is. The accused may be granted trial in court, under such limitations on his defense as the government fixes by other decrees, or he may be denied trial and sent to a concentration camp, in which case he is beyond even the limited protection of a court.

The United States still has a free legislative body. The Wrightwood case was brought under a law which it passed. But the form of the reports the defendant was required to file was not fixed by the law but by the secretary of agriculture acting under the supposed color of the law. The defendant was granted an appearance in court, but not a hearing. The government sought to inflict an extreme punishment on the company on its own allegation of facts, without giving the defendant an opportunity to challenge the truth of the allegations or the legality or reasonableness of the government's demand.

The government approached Judge Woodward in the spirit of the mayor of an English town some centuries ago. On hearing of a rare case in which a defendant had been acquitted of treason, the mayor exclaimed with surprise that the man would not have been brought to trial if he had not been guilty. The judge was expected to believe that Administrator Cladakis would not have filed his complaints and affidavits if the company had not been guilty.

The procedure which Judge Woodward refused to follow is typical of recent tactics of those who seek, under the cover of what they call administrative law, to rule by decree. They would prefer that their administrators make and enforce their own rules without restraint by the courts. Balked in this, they fall back to a second line of defense, in which they seek to give the citizen the form of a court hearing but to deny him the substance.

The administrative law boys are young men in a hurry. They offer elaborate arguments that their short cuts are necessary if the law's intolerable delays are not to defeat the necessary control of the machinery of modern society. They would have us forget that those delays are imposed because centuries of experience taught the English speaking peoples that they were necessary to protect citizens against arbitrary government. The short cuts that administrative law offers are too often the same that make Nazi injustice swift and sure.

LYONS HAS THE IDEA.

Republicans of Illinois will indorse the campaign rule laid down by Richard J. Lyons, who seeks the nomination for governor.

"We are not going to do anything to weaken the Republican party," said Mr. Lyons. "As a candidate for governor I shall confine my efforts to getting Hornerism out of the statehouse. I'm not going to fight Republicans or attempt to divide the Republican party."

The Republican party, on the basis of the last election returns, is still the minority party in this state. It cannot hope to resume its traditional place as the majority party if it wastes its strength in factional strife. The rank and file want no contests waged with such bitterness that they leave a weakened victor, doomed to defeat in the election.

Nor are such tactics consonant with the purpose of the primary. That purpose is to pick nominees who can whip the Democrats in the fall. Candidates can best demonstrate their ability by working out now on the obvious weaknesses of their future opponents. Then, whoever wins in the primary, winner and loser alike will have contributed to the task that the party wants done.

TESTING THE CANDIDATES.

The recent announcement by his campaign managers makes it certain that Thomas E. Dewey's candidacy for the nomination to the presidency will be presented to the Republicans of Illinois at the forthcoming primary. So far, Mr. Dewey has the primary field to himself. The other candidates have not yet made up their minds about entering the contest or perhaps have decided against it.

It is to be hoped that all the other aspirants will join in the running. In the interest of the party, they have a duty to do so. The Illinois presidential primary law offers an unusual opportunity to test the popularity of the candidates. The choice does not bind the delegates to the national conventions; in that sense, our preferential primary is a good deal like a straw vote, but with this difference: It provides not a more or less unreliable sampling of the electorate but the most complete sort of a referendum.

This year the Republican party is fortunate in having a choice among a number of presidential candidates all of whom are distinguished for ability and sincerity of purpose. The most difficult question to be decided by the nominating convention is which of these men has the best chance to win. Other things being equal, if one candidate is obviously a popular favorite, it would be flying in the face of providence to nominate some one else.

The Illinois primary affords an opportunity to remove much of the guessing. Illinois provides as good a cross-section of the American electorate as can be found anywhere. Our state is among the first in agriculture and in industry. If any of the candidates is handicapped by unpopularity with farm voters, city voters, or any other category of citizens the Illinois primary can bring out the fact. If any of the candidates is conspicuously a favorite, that fact will also be developed.

Accordingly, we should like to see all of the principal contenders enter the preferential primary. If they do so, they will evidence a genuine desire to serve their party and their country at a moment when a mistake in judgment by the national convention, based upon insufficient knowledge of the state of mind of the electorate, can be costly beyond reckoning.

AIR BOMBS ON FINLAND.

Finnish air raid defense authorities assert that in a recent week the Russians, using as many as 450 planes, dropped 6,667 bombs on Finnish towns and cities and succeeded in killing only 18 civilians. The Russians themselves, it is asserted, lost two planes and six airmen for every civilian killed. Against opponents only reasonably well armed, as the Finns are, the bombing plane has not proved effective as an instrument of mass terror and destruction, but has proved too expensive to be long used for such results.

Admittedly, the Russian aviation is not too good, but the Finnish experience reinforces opinion based on the use of aviation in Spain and China. In the Spanish war far more damage was done by bombers, but only once was a population driven to panic, and that was at Barcelona in the closing days of the war, when a lost cause and the pressure of ground forces furnished additional stimuli to fear.

Indeed, the only real successes of bombers have been won as the auxiliaries of ground armies, not as independent striking forces. In China Japanese planes can slaughter helpless and unprotected thousands in the cities, but they have been ineffective in disrupting the Chinese armies.

The bombers made their best showing in Poland, and there every circumstance favored them. The Germans had fine planes in overwhelming numbers. The Poles had few and lost those quickly. Bombers terrorized civilian populations and did great damage to military communications, but they were operating against a bewildered army.

The terror in Poland was as much a product of the blitzkrieg waged by the German armored divisions as of the bombing raids, altho the complete German command of the air did blind the Polish generals and immensely aided the motorized and mechanized forces in separating and destroying the Polish armies. But while bombs killed thousands in Warsaw, the city did not surrender until the Germans brought up their artillery and started shelling it.

The great weight of the evidence—in Spain and Finland particularly—is that against an enemy able to fight back the efficacy of air bombing has been greatly exaggerated. This exaggeration has to a large extent been deliberate, for propaganda purposes. It has been an instrument of foreign policy for the Nazis and it has been given currency in this country in an attempt to justify an expansion of air forces that, in the light of increasing combat experience in Europe, may well be excessive or premature.

A CANCER QUACK CONVICTED.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The incredible career of Norman Baker, self-styled cancer doctor, has met another setback by his conviction in federal court at Little Rock, with two aids, for using the mails to defraud. This man, whose training went no further than the second year in high school, who has been a vaudeville hypnotist, a calliope manufacturer, and a mail order vendor of assorted merchandise, had the brazen audacity to set himself up as competent to cure one of mankind's worst scourges. Iowa sent Baker to jail in 1937 for practicing medicine without a license, the government shut down his radio station, which advertised his cancer nostrum, but he was undeterred and had developed a lucrative business with a new hospital at Eureka Springs, Ark.

Such frauds as this are far worse than those which merely deprive the gullible of money or property. Cancer in its early stages can be cured by medical science, but the quack, to enrich himself, induces sufferers to use his fake remedies instead of consulting a reputable physician. More power to the government in its efforts to protect the public from such vicious swindles!

MONDAY'S NOTEBOOK.

The war news item that interested us most during the last week was the few lines from London stating that all broom handles must be square for the duration. Perhaps it's a happy omen for a square peace treaty.

Tomorrow is the publication date for a volume on one of our favorite subjects: "221 B: Studies in Sherlock Holmes." It's an editing job by Vincent Starrett, Chicago's Number 1 Holmes expert, and contains essays by various Baker street fanatics, including Christopher Morley. One of the chapters deals with Dr. Watson's "clandestine marriage."

The people who say "So what!" and "O, yeah?" today may like to know that 40 years ago the more or less equivalent expressions of worldliness and cynicism were "I don't think" and "Nit."

While Lincoln lore is in vogue, let's get the origin of his family name. It is an English place name [county and city], formed of Celtic and Latin words. Linn [Celtic] means a still, deep pool; coln means that the Roman invaders established a colonia or settlement there.

And Abraham, out of the Bible and ancient Hebrew, appropriately means "the father of a multitude."

FIRST CHRISTIAN MARTYR.

(A sonnet to St. Stephen.)

The thrill of being first belonged to him
Whose blood fell first upon time's shifting sands;
First ripples of the mighty flood that stands
This very day a lake with moistened rim.
He was the fount whence flowed the hallowed stream
That still drips from the chalices of God
To purify, to warm the barren sod
And raise new harvests of an endless dream.

Brave Stephen, every stone that bore you down
Helped build foundations for your holy shrine
And blood upon your head has formed a crown.
The fools who stoned you opened heaven's gate
And flung you in! Would that your fate were mine
That I might die returning love for hate.

Stephen Allen.

The Duke Breaks Into Society.

Well, folks, high society has finnaly sawn the error of its ways an took us in. Me and tha Mama gets invited to Helen Main's "Coming-out" party. Yea, been with tha school board till she's 63; now she's a-coming out. Ya shooda seen me dressed up in my wealthy brother Bennie's monkey suit [vintage 1928]. Tha pants fit me like a sausage casing [only more so], and tha coat sleeves was long enough so's I didn' hafta wear gloves. I was gonna rent one fer 4 bucks, but he says I cood use his fer two.

Tha shindig was pulled in a swell big hotel an I betcha there were 300 or more teachers an principals there. Tha grub was swell; they sure must pay their cook heavy dough, an boy how they trusted us. I had about 6 forks an knives by my plate—guess that's done in case ya drop a few on tha floor cause it woodn' be polite ta pick em up. In society they eat hind-end to—fer instance a dish of juicy chopped fruit was served first instead of last, then came soup [must of run short of soup plates cause they brung it in cups], an next comes a dish which was right up my alley—a big plate of turkey with all tha trimmings. I was about to ask tha waiter fer a 2nd helping when the Mama kicked me so hard in the ankle that my shoulder hasn't felt right ever since. After that they had a big ice cream display, an everybody got a hunk with their coffee. On the bottom of the bill of fare it said Petit Fours—guess they ran out of those cause we got fancy cookies.

The speech-making an music was grand. One principal played the saxophone so good I think he's in a high priced band an just principals as a sideline. A Miss Fallon, swell looker, spoke well, and then they announced that the big shot, Dr. Johnson, Supt. of Chicago Schools, coodn' come on account of the night before he got strepti-cockeyed, an all the time I'm thinkin those kind of guys were tea-tote-lers. A swell diamond wrist watch was then given to Helen. Now that she aint going no place, they give her a watch so she'll get there on time. After everybody got up an sang a song, somethin about "Old Man Lang's Sign," we got chased home. I certainly was jealous of all those nice educated people, an from now on I'm also going to act in that heavenly, dignified, sophisticated manner and no more profanity.

Duke Bakrak.

P. S.—O, Ma! How do ya get this [unprintable] boiled shirt off?

REMEMBERED KISSES.

The night the first snow fell
I kissed you first—but once,
Nor thought of love.
Your eyes searched deep my soul
And turned away a little hurt.

Evenings in spring . . . we walked
And talked and counted stars.
The night June died we kissed
Once more. Again you searched
And shook your head in doubt.

And after that you gazed
And questioned often with your eyes.
You were so charming, tiny, sweet;
I wonder if . . . ? Ah, well, 'twas long ago,
And now—we never meet.

As a Writer She's Not N. G.

Librarians in New Zealand say that "mystery" novelist Ngaio Marsh's first name is a Maori word with two definitions—as an adjective meaning "clever, expert," and as a noun referring to a native New Zealand flowering tree.

They also say that Miss Marsh's American publishers are wrong in stating that the name should be pronounced "ny-o." Maori scholars contend that the "ng" is pronounced just as it is in "ringing" or "singing."

However, Miss Marsh herself is quoted as saying they are all wrong, that it should be pronounced in three syllables, just as it is spelled, except that the "g" is silent! The answer is "Aw gnuts!"

Catherine Henry.

"Death in the Virgins," now on the "mystery" shelves of the circulating libraries, is signed by "R. H. Barbour," but our detective instinct tells us that it was written by Robert Morss Lovett, ex-U. of C. prof now on the Virgin Islands administrative staff. CHARLES COLLINS.

GHOSTS FROM THE FURNACE

EXPOSURE to carbon monoxide gas is a constantly increasing menace, no matter how frequently we repeat the warning: "Do not operate your automobile in a closed space." Lives are lost because certain individuals insist on running the motor with the garage doors fastened tightly. Gasoline and all types of fuel contain a goodly quantity of carbon and—when mixed with air and burned or exploded—both carbon monoxide and carbon dioxide are generated. But the former is far more dangerous than the latter. This is the reason that we are so careful about providing proper vents from heaters to the outside air, so that the harmful fumes may be carried away.

Recently an episode was brought to my attention which has considerable interest because it illustrates the cumulative effects of this poisonous substance. A group of persons occupied offices over a garage. Every one appeared in the morning with the usual enthusiasm for the tasks ahead. As the day wore on, however, headache, nausea, and apathy were common to all. For the most part, the discomfort passed away shortly after reaching the open air. Those who walked home felt well on arrival. Those who boarded buses or street cars found that the symptoms persisted well into the evening.

After the condition had lasted for some weeks, examination disclosed that enough monoxide had filtered thru the floors and walls [there was no direct connection] to be responsible for the manifestations. With better ventilation the trouble disappeared.

The following tale has to do with the psychic disturbances that may follow slow, but continued absorption of low dilutions of this gas. The family in question resided in a house that was built a number of years ago. It was heated with a combination of hot air and steam. The first peculiar sensations were experienced by the mother—who heard footsteps above her bedroom. Since the attic was unoccupied, she hurried upstairs but could find no trace of an intruder. Another evening, when seated in the dining room prior to retiring, she felt some one beside her. The consciousness of the presence of an uninvited guest was so vivid that she arose and walked about but could not shake off the impression. It was then observed that the children were pale and listless. Every one in the household complained of unusual fatigue and occasional chills running up and down the spine, altho the temperature was maintained at 70 to 72 degrees Fahrenheit.

The father, who shared the general feeling of depression—as tho something terrible were about to happen—roused up frequently during the night certain that he heard the doorbell. He would journey fruitlessly from the front to the back. Once he awoke—positive that the fire department had dashed up the street and stopped near his home. Alarmed, he hurried to the window—only to find the street quiet and deserted.

During the Christmas vacation the family went away and returned in time for the opening of school—health and spirits much improved. Within a week, however, the same hallucinations reappeared. Breakfast was anything but a pleasant meal as each recounted the happenings of the night. One would state that he was awakened by the slamming of the door of his room and another by the tinkling of a bell.

Shortly thereafter the mother was surprised to see a strange person standing in the doorway leading to the dining room. The figure was that of a dark haired woman dressed in black. Upon approaching the apparition, it disappeared—fading into nothing. Then it was that an investigation was determined upon.

It occurred to the family physician that possibly carbon monoxide—with its known toxic influence upon sight and hearing—might be the culprit. A further hint lay in the fact that fresh, vigorous house plants, acquired during the holidays, died quickly. Analysis of the atmosphere disclosed a sufficiently high percentage of the suspected chemical to account for all of the derangements. The source was a crack in the heating chamber—which allowed the monoxide to mingle with the hot air forced into the living quarters. With repair of the furnace and increased ventilation—the ghosts vanished.

LUNG TUBERCULOSIS.

Mrs. D. writes:

1. What is pulmonary tuberculosis?
2. Is it also known as "hasty?"
3. What is the treatment?
4. Does cure take a long time?

Reply.

1. Consumption. Tuberculosis involving the lungs.
2. Possibly this refers to a rapidly progressive form.
3. Rest and good nursing. In many instances some form of compression treatment is necessary. The lung is put at rest by being "splinted." One procedure is termed "pneumothorax."
4. Approximately a year, altho in some cases a longer period may be demanded.

MILK DRINKING.

Mrs. W. writes: My husband has been drinking a cup of warm milk for breakfast for a number of years. He heard recently that milk is not good for the eyes and that it should only be used by babies. Is there anything to this?

Reply.

Milk is an excellent food—for infants and adults alike. The drinking of milk is in no way related to any form of eye weakness.

DANGEROUS TOYS.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—Now that the city council is considering means to check the "toy gun" menace may I heartily indorse such action?

Children learn from movies and comic strips that pistols are lovely things, striking down the wicked from afar and rarely seriously harming any one else. They get the habit of handling toy pistols with the freedom of any other toy, and because the toy guns are so realistic, those habits of thinking and handling carry over to real guns.

A pistol has one main purpose: to kill people. Before some virile graduate of the toy pistol can yell "panty waist" I acknowledge that in emergency it may be necessary to use a pistol to kill some one in defense of one's home. I keep a pistol in my home against such an emergency and have taught my wife to use it. I think every householder should do likewise.

But guns in the hands of people who do not understand them are no protection; they are dangerous tools. To have them where kids with toy pistol ideas can get hold of them is more dangerous than keeping a couple of pet rattlesnakes.

My own aversion to toy guns is based on years of teaching boys to use guns, after unteaching them their movie and toy gun ideas. GEO. H. MORRILL,
F. A. Reserve.

HIS KIDS LIKE SCHOOL.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Dr. Johnson, you've got something there! On Thursday, Jan. 18, with the temperature reading 14 degrees below, my two children begged to be allowed to go to school. This meant walking five full city blocks thru wind swept prairies into the teeth of a northwest wind. When a school can rouse children's interests to that extent it is quite an achievement. The chief attraction on the day in question was a student government election. Campaign speeches had been made and the stage was set.

It is a new experience to have children plead for school. I believe this idea of student participation in school government was one of your main objectives when you took office. In my opinion, it certainly seems to work in more ways than one.

LEST WE FORGET.

Chicago, Jan. 24. — Washington, the man who fought at Yorktown and froze at Valley Forge for American independence, declined a third term for President of the United States.

WILLIAM WALTER SCOTT.

MR. TROHAN STILL SAYS LEE.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—In a letter, published in THE TRIBUNE this morning, Roy E. Tallman takes issue with my statement that Light Horse Harry Lee uttered the famous "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," eulogy of Washington. Mr. Tallman ascribes the phrase to John Marshall and cites Marshall's use of it in a congressional resolution.

The Dictionary of American Biography in its life of Lee states: "The resolutions offered by John Marshall on the death of Washington were drawn by Lee and contained the description of Washington as "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

The words are reliably reported to have been first uttered by Lee as, "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his fellow townsmen," at a meeting in Alexandria, Va., at the Philip R. Fendall home, which was then occupied by Lee's brother, Richard Bland Lee. The meeting had been summoned to make plans for Washington's funeral.

Lee, like Reader Tallman, also liked the phrase and changed it slightly for the Marshall resolution and used it in his Washington memorial oration in Philadelphia, Dec. 26, 1799.

The Fendall home, as THE TRIBUNE said Jan. 20, is now the property of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. dictator.

WALTER TROHAN.

WINDSOR'S MARRIAGE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 28.—In your graphic section of this date, page 6, appeared: "The woman I love.—The drama of Edward's abdication." The last of the "cast" in the drama is shown as "The Rev. R. A. Jardine, who married the Windsors."

Jardine did not marry this couple. All he did was to make a farce of the marriage service of the Church of England by reading it to them, and by going thru the necessary motions prescribed in the official prayer book of that church.

He could not have married them as they were already legally married—and only so—by the mayor of the community, or district, in which they were then residing, and in accordance with the French legal civil code which is compulsory and which constitutes the only legal marriage in France.

Jardine defied his superiors. He had no jurisdiction in France and was entirely without legal authority.

HOKUM AHEAD.

Elmhurst, Ill., Jan. 30.—Another political hokum period is ahead. Do you remember when Democratic Candidate Roosevelt—fresh from wild spending as New York's governor—urged us to elect him so that he could get the government out of business; so that he could reduce the number of bureaus, and reduce national expenditures by 25 per cent? And how Socialist Candidate Thomas requested election so that he could appropriate billions of dollars for charity and public works? But the citizens wanted no Socialistic nonsense. They voted for Roosevelt and economy!

AN OLD EUROPEAN CUSTOM.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—The situation in Poland 12 months ago, in relation to her Ukrainian minority, was this: Approximately 300 Ukrainian churches destroyed, 190 priests imprisoned, Ukrainian schools closed, Ukrainian property rights suspended, prisons filled with Ukrainian political prisoners, and Polish coöperation with Hungary to destroy the autonomous Carpatho-Ukraine. Poland, as a Christian nation, should have remembered the ripe old rule of "Do unto others as you would have done unto you."

How Our States Got Their Names

25. Nebraska.

Nebraska is from an Indian word meaning "flat water," according to historians. The state was named after the Nebraska river. Nebraska, first settled in 1819, entered the union on March 1, 1867.

Nebraska state seal. It includes, steamboat on Missouri river, smith with hammer and anvil, grain fields and settler's cabin, railroad train heading for Rocky mountains, and scroll bearing state motto. Date [March 1, 1867] is that of statehood.

Nicknames given the state include the Antelope, Blackwater, Bug-Eating, Tree Planters, and Cornhusker state. The Blackwater nickname is said to come from the fact that the dark Nebraska soil makes the water in its streams seem black. There formerly were numerous antelopes in the state, and Nebraska has many bats which feed on bugs. The state legislature adopted the Tree Planters state as official because of the many trees planted there. The Cornhuskers spread from the University of Nebraska football team to the state as a whole.

"Equality Before the Law" is the state motto. The state flower is the goldenrod, the bird the meadowlark, and the tree the elm.

DEFICIENCY JUDGMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 25 [Legal Friend of the People].—Two years ago my building was foreclosed upon, leaving a deficiency judgment of $800. I have no further interest in said building, but would like to clear my credit. I would appreciate your answering these few questions:

1. Is this judgment only against said building or will it prevent me from purchasing real estate in the near future?
2. If so, might I purchase real estate under the federal housing provisions with prevailing judgment?
3. How long is this judgment in effect?
4. How might I invalidate said judgment thru court action if against me?

F. J. S.

1. If a deficiency decree was taken against you, it would still be a lien on property that you acquire.
2. See 1.
3. If execution was issued within a year the lien would continue seven years but not longer unless renewed.
4. One course would be by bankruptcy if you are insolvent. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the surrounding facts. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

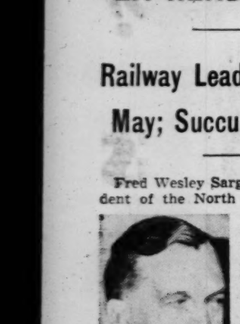
FRED W. SARGENT, NORTH WESTERN EX-HEAD, IS DEAD

Railway Leader Ill Since May; Succumbs at 63.



Fred W. Sargent.

Fred Wesley Sargent, retired president of the North Western railroad and a national figure in business, died late Saturday night in the Evanston hospital. Ill health forced Mr. Sargent's retirement last May 26. His health continued to fail, and he had been confined to the hospital for the last month.

Mr. Sargent was 63 years old. He was president of the railroad for 14 years. During the 20 years that he had been in the railroad industry here he had been a spokesman for the western railroads and a recognized authority on the nation's transportation problems. He fought relentlessly to free the railroads from the oppression of government regulation.

Acts to Slash Taxes.

Mr. Sargent urged both the national and local governments to curb high taxes. Chicago's business leaders chose him in 1932 to head the Citizens' Committee on Public Expenditures, which brought about substantial reductions in expenditures of local government bodies of the county.

His achievements as head of the committee won him the Benjamin J. Rosenthal foundation medal for outstanding civic service.

He was a director of the United States Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the national commission which supervised the carving of the Mount Rushmore memorial in the Black Hills of South Dakota; former president of the Economic club, and a trustee of the Field museum, Northwestern university, the Museum of Science and Industry, Lake Forest academy, and Cornell college in Mount Vernon, Ia.

Head of Minneapolis Road.

Mr. Sargent also was president of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railroad, a subsidiary of the North Western, and a director of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, the Illinois Bell Telephone company, and several railroads. Yet he told the story of his life and accomplishments for "Who's Who in America" in 20 lines of type.

He was born in Akron, Ia., and was educated as a lawyer at the University of Iowa, Iowa City. In 1906 he joined the railroad as a legal representative in Des Moines and Sioux City.

He came to Chicago in 1920 as general solicitor for the North Western. In 1923 he became vice president and general counsel.

Merges Two Jobs.

Marvin Hughitt, one of the last of the American railway pioneers, retired as chairman of the railroad's board in 1925 at the age of 87. President William H. Finley retired with him. Mr. Sargent was chosen president and told to roll the jobs of the two retiring officers into one.

It was the first time one of the great roads had turned from the railroad builder and the technically skilled operative to appoint a lawyer and financier as president.

The railroad prospered under Mr. Sargent, but suffered the same financial reverses as most of the American railroads during the depression. In 1935 it was placed in reorganization under the bankruptcy law.

Mr. Sargent lived at 2807 Sheridan place, Evanston.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Minier Sargent; two sons, Minier and Haskell, and a daughter, Mrs. Fredrica French.

Funeral services will be at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in the First Methodist Church of Evanston.

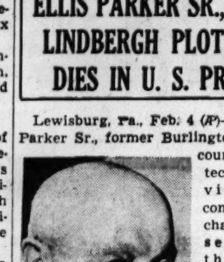
ELLIS PARKER SR., 68, LINDBERGH PLOTTER, DIES IN U. S. PRISON

Lewisburg, Pa., Feb. 4 (AP).—Ellis H. Parker Sr., former Burlington, N. J., county detective convicted of conspiracy charges in a sequel to the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, died today at the federal penitentiary where he was serving a six year sentence.



Ellis Parker Sr.
[Associated Press Photo.]

The 68 year old former officer, who built a notable career during the 44 years he was a rural sleuth, had been suffering from an organic cerebral condition.

Parker and his son, Ellis Jr., were convicted in 1937 of conspiring to kidnap Paul H. Wendel, former Trenton, N. J., lawyer. The son was sentenced to three years.

The government charged the elder Parker, in an effort to enhance his reputation as a detective, plotted to seize Wendel and torture him into falsely confessing the Lindbergh kidnaping. Parker produced Wendel's "confession"—subsequently repudiated and discredited by state officials—almost on the eve of the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptman in Trenton. An investigation caused a three day delay in the electrocution.

Parker lost his 15 room house in Mount Holly, N. J., by foreclosure, was ousted from his post of chief of county detectives, and suffered from declining health. That he still was held in high esteem in Burlington county, however, was attested to by a petition bearing 8,000 signatures asking for presidential clemency and later for a pardon.

He held official positions in several national Catholic organizations.

He was born in Cleveland, O., and came to Louisville in 1891. His widow, two sons, and a daughter survive.

VAUCLAIN DIES; FAMOUS MAKER OF LOCOMOTIVES

Decorated for His Work in World War Years.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 4 [Special].—Samuel M. Vauclain, chairman of the board of the Baldwin Locomotive works since 1929, and associated with that company since 1883, died of heart disease in his home in suburban Rosemont today. He would have been 84 next May.

S. M. Vauclain.
[Paul Thompson Photo.]

Vauclain had been in and out of hospitals for a year and was unable to come to his office. He probably built more locomotives than any other man, but never attained a boyhood ambition to become a locomotive engineer.

Forbears from France.

Vauclain, son of Andrew C. and Mary Campbell Vauclain, was born in Philadelphia. His grandfather, Jacques Leonard Vauclain, and his grandmother left France at the time of the French revolution, taking refuge in Martinique. They came to settle in Philadelphia in 1793.

Samuel Vauclain was educated in the Altoona public schools and at the age of 16 entered the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad and at the age of 27 went to work for the Baldwin Locomotive works. In 1886 he was made general superintendent of the plant, and on Jan. 1, 1896, he became a member of the firm of Burnham, Williams & Co., owners of the works.

On July 1, 1911, he was made vice president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, the company having been incorporated two years previously. He was appointed senior vice president on Sept. 6, 1917, and president on May 19, 1919. Under his guidance the transfer of the works from Philadelphia to Eddystone was completed in 1928. He was elected chairman of the board on March 28, 1929.

Gets Orders During War.

It was during the world war that Vauclain showed his greatest ability as an organizer and executive. Before the United States became involved he made two trips to Russia and obtained large orders for locomotives and munitions from that country. Contracts also were made with Britain and France for locomotives and ammunition.

Under Vauclain's general direction a plant was built at Eddystone for the manufacture of rifles by the Remington Arms Company of Delaware, and the Eddystone Ammunition company was organized for the manufacture of ammunition.

With the entrance of the United States into the world war the entire facilities of the Baldwin Locomotive works were placed at the disposal of the United States, and large orders for locomotives, gunmounts, and ammunition were executed.

On account of valuable services rendered to his own and foreign governments during and subsequent to the world war Vauclain was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal by the United States and was decorated by several European governments.

HONEYMOONERS DIE AS AIRPLANE CRASHES IN FOG

Hammond, La., Feb. 4 (AP).—A honeymooning couple, en route to New Orleans for the merry-making of Mardi Gras, and three other persons were killed tonight when their plane, lost in a fog, crashed and burned in a woody marsh near here. The bodies were burned beyond recognition. The airplane left Denver this morning piloted by Don T. Craig, 30 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zimmerhackel.

The crash occurred after a New Orleans airport communications operator, 70 miles away, talked with Craig by radio for an hour, trying in vain to give him directions for reaching the airport thru the fog. Finally the desperate pilot said he would have to risk a landing. The crash followed.

The victims besides Craig were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zimmerhackel, married yesterday in Denver; the plane's owner, Mrs. Elizabeth McSweeney Powell of Denver, and Michael Creed Hinderlinder Jr., son of a Colorado state engineer. All were prominent Coloradoans. Zimmerhacken, 56 years old, a Denver businessman, once was a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States senate. His bride was Mrs. Elizabeth Swann Ellis, 43, divorced wife of Erl Ellis, Denver attorney.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL DISCHARGES FIVE IN TRAIN WRECK

Holds Both Crews to Blame for New Year's Crash.

Five employés of the Illinois Central railroad, including four crew members of the line's crack trains on the southern run—the Panama Limited and the Louisiane—have been discharged, it was learned yesterday, as a consequence of the New Year's morning wreck involving the two trains. A sixth employé, also a crew member, has been retired on a pension.

The wreck occurred at Arcola, in Douglas county, 156 miles south of Chicago. One person was killed and 54 were injured.

The disciplinary action was taken by the railroad itself, independently of any recommendations which may be made by the Interstate Commerce and Illinois Commerce commissions, both of which investigated the wreck. The commissions have not issued a formal report.

No One Wholly to Blame.

Railroad officials said no one man was wholly to blame, but cited specific negligence on the part of all those dismissed.

F. R. Mays, vice president of the railroad, announced dismissal of these crew members of the Louisiane: John Stout of Champaign, engineer; John Tierney of Chicago, conductor, and Archie White of Chicago, flagman. Others dismissed were Mike Cavanaugh of Chicago, conductor of the Panama Limited, and Ora Knight of Champaign, dispatcher. R. S. Scott of Champaign, engineer of the Panama Limited, was eligible for a pension and was retired.

The Panama Limited plowed into the Louisiane from behind, telescoping five all-steel Pullman cars. The collision occurred just before dawn, when the temperature was 6 degrees above zero, after the Louisiane had made an unscheduled stop at Arcola to pick up a Chicago bound passenger.

Safety Control Out of Order.

The Panama Limited had reported its automatic safety control out of order at Centralia, but had been ordered to proceed. The control is intended to stop the train behind if its engineer fails to reduce his speed within five seconds after it warns him he is within half a mile of a train ahead. The Panama Limited ordinarily runs two miles behind the Louisiane.

Railroad officials said the engineer of the Louisiane should have blown his whistle to warn his flagman of his intended stop at Arcola, but he did not. The flagman was looking back and saw the Panama Limited's headlight drawing near even tho he had not been warned. He should have begun throwing out warning flares, but he did not, because he thought his train would keep ahead. The conductor who was in charge should have seen that all rules were obeyed.

Speed of Train Cited.

The railroad officials said of the Panama Limited: The engineer should not have exceeded 35 miles an hour with the safety control out of commission, but he ran as high as 80 miles an hour and was traveling between 50 and 60 at the time of the wreck. His conductor should have stopped him.

The officials said of Dispatcher Knight: He knew the Louisiane had been losing time while the Panama Limited was gaining. He should have ordered the Panama Limited stopped at some point along the line.

All those disciplined had excellent previous records, according to the railroad officials.

POLICE TO START NEW FIGHT ON BOOKIES TODAY

A police drive to close handbooks in Chicago is expected to be started today in accordance with a warning that local officials must aid the government in closing the gambling places or face possible prosecution as members of a lottery conspiracy.

Capt. George O'Connor of the 1st district ordered four detectives on the night shift to work days in the campaign. Fourteen police men will be detailed to close loop handbooks and those as far south as 22d street. Captains of other districts are said to have ordered their men to close handbooks in their area. The gambling detail, with 15 or 20 men under Capt. Martin McCormick, will join in the drive.

The district captains were warned Saturday by Commissioner Allman each would be responsible for handbooks operating in his district.

THIS IS NO TIME TO TAKE CHANCES WITH COLDS

With Contagious Colds Increasing Take These Precautions For Your Family's Sake and Your Own

Keep out of crowds as much as possible. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Don't take needless chances. Don't experiment with untried medications. And be sure to have these two time-tested home-approved treatments on hand, ready to use.

At the First Sign of a Cold

Be ready to help prevent many colds from developing. At the first warning sneeze, sniffle, or irritated feeling in your nose—use Vicks VA-TRO-NOL. Just a few drops up each nostril. Right away you can feel Va-tro-nol stimulating Nature's own cold-fighting defenses. It actually helps to keep many colds from developing—or to throw them off in the early stages.

Also use VA-TRO-NOL for swift relief from the suffocating stuffiness and congestion of a head cold.

If a Cold Develops
(Some colds get by all precautions)

Thoroughly massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VAPORUB, then spread on a thick layer of VapoRub, cover with a warmed cloth, and go to bed. VapoRub brings wonderful relief and invites restful sleep. Then hour after hour it keeps working—stimulating the skin like a warming poultice, while its medicinal vapors are breathed into the cold-irritated air passages of nose, throat and chest. Often when morning comes, most of the cold's discomforts are gone.

Now Be Prepared—Get a bottle of Vicks VA-TRO-NOL and a jar of Vicks VAPORUB today and take the above precautions. They may save you a lot of sickness and worry.

20 YEARS EXPERIENCE

in treating nothing but gonorrhea and syphilis is your guarantee of getting expert venereal disease attention if you come to this clinic!

If venereally infected you naturally want the very finest treatment available. Hence the following facts about the Public Health Institute should be of vital interest to you.

Established 20 years ago this month in small quarters with only one physician in attendance, it now occupies 6 floors at 159 North Dearborn Street, another at 129 East 31st Street, and has facilities for treating 1,200 patients daily in perfect privacy!

During the past 20 years the Public Health Institute has given over 5 million examinations and treatments for gonorrhea and syphilis to more than 275,000 individuals. This wealth of experience, unequalled in Chicago, assures your getting the finest venereal disease attention it is possible to obtain!

The gonorrhea and syphilis divisions are headed by specialists whose writings on venereal infections have appeared in leading medical publications here and abroad. Every patient of the Institute is free to consult them at any time on the progress of his or her case.

The Public Health Institute has practically every modern facility for the proper diagnosis and treatment of venereal infections. Thus, in addition to its wide experience, it possesses X-ray, cardiographic, laboratory and other equipment not generally available outside of hospitals.

That you need the very best of treatment becomes apparent when you consider that gonorrhea may easily lead to a sight-destroying eye infection, crippling arthritis, stricture, sterility, or serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles. And that syphilis can readily be the cause of heart failure, blindness, deafness, paralysis or even insanity!

Because the Public Health Institute was founded by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, its charges are amazingly low for the expert treatment it renders.

A careful examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood tests, urinalysis and smears, costs very little, while individual treatments are easily within the reach of every wage earner.

Furthermore, not even those who lack ready money are denied treatment by the Institute. Any responsible person who is temporarily short of funds can make arrangements to be cared for!

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Unless we miss our guess, it will take a sophisticated, studiedly chic woman to wear the new makeup that was inspired by the cosmetic requirements of television. But for those women who can carry it off—it's a dark makeup, one for blondes, one for brunettes—it's exceedingly dramatic.

The blonde makeup is totally different from that for the brunette. The foundation gives the skin a warm beige tone. The lipstick looks almost black in the stick, but on the lips is a dark red stain. Rouge is used ever so sparingly and two shades of powder are used, one darker than the other. The mascara is a brand new shade, just off black, and appropriately described as a dark slate gray.

For eye glorification there are two shadows, a brown for the lids and a shade called red gold, to be applied just above the lashes to provide a glistening glamor under night lights. Then there is nail enamel, a bit deeper than the tone of the lip rouge.

The brunette makeup strives for dramatic contrasts. The foundation shade brings out the creaminess in the brunette's skin, the lipstick is a mulberry shade and two carefully chosen shades of face powder emphasize the creaminess of the complexion. Just a tiny bit of rouge is used and the eyes are dramatized with both a brown and a green gold shadow. Mascara is jet black.

These new makeups are completely unlike the red reds and the soft pinks we've been seeing. These are wearable translations of the very dark, completely extreme makeups that were developed in the east for television. The debutantes clamored for them.

Parents Should Interpret Dark Side of Society

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1940; News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Do you ever wince when your boys and girls read the newspapers, hear certain radio broadcasts, see certain films?

The things that make news and drama are not the well fed, loved children, the successful marriages, the deep loves, the happy homes, the creative or constructive or well ordered lives of most normal human beings. Unavoidably, our children will see, read, hear about war, crime, dishonesty in high places, sexual irregularities and abnormalities, and all sorts of moral and physical ills to which the flesh [and spirit] are heir. Besides wincing, what do you do about it?

Since conversation, printed matter, movies, and radio present so vividly the darker side of life, it is essential for us to interpret these facts to the children in such a way that they will be able to fit them into a scheme of living that provides for happy and constructive thinking.

The young child hears less, reads less, sees less, and understands less of what he does hear, read, and see. Explanations to him must be suited to his age.

But the older child or the teen age boy or girl hears, sees, and reads much. To him or her we must tell the truth, again suited to his or her understanding. And we must explain the reason for much of the wickedness of the world—its ignorance and social and economic injustice. But above all we must see that he knows of the fine things that men do, of the happy normal mass of people, of the constructive, selfless work that is carried on, and of the heights that men and women often attain. This will balance his picture and keep him from disillusionment and cynicism and even despair.

Simple and Feminine Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Softened, feminine lines are what you will want in your first spring dress, and this simple model, with a jacket if you wish one, gives straight lines, always desirable for a slenderizing effect, modified by drapery in the bodice. The skirt is allowed to retain all of its slimness. Sleeves may be short, three-quarter, or full length, and the belt around the pointed-high waistline may contrast or be of the dress material.

Both prints and plain shades, and combinations of them, make up well. A silk and woolen outfit will fit into the spring scheme nicely.

Style No. 3151 is designed for sizes 14 and 16 and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material for bolero and skirt; 1¾ yards of contrasting for waist.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Cossack Choir Is Perfect in Showy Effects

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The stage of the Auditorium held 25 booted Russians yesterday and the old building rang with the type of virile music making which we have been led to associate with the Cossacks of the River Don and with the soldier-sings of the old régime. The occasion was a concert by the Gen. Platoff Don Cossack choir, Nicholas Kostrukoff conducting.

In a program of Russian sacred and secular, folk and art music the Cossacks found one opportunity after another for the magnificent tonal effects of which they are capable. An organlike wealth of sound would be succeeded before you could say "Jack Robinson" by a flaky pianissimo which threatened to become silence itself. And these tonal effects had that throbbing, supercharged emotional quality which sends lovers of Cossack choirs into raptures.

The precision of the group was enough to take away what breath the display of its tonal charms might have left. Such exactness of attack and release, such uncanny accuracy of balance even in a sudden, fast change of volume!

But this emphasis on meticulousness and on the eternal making of effects harms the musical expressiveness of the choir. If only the songs would flow naturally and naïvely along, and achieve a little musical and emotional momentum! Instead we have what seems like a series of starts and stops—and the music becomes static or pedestrian. There is a strained, tense feeling. The songs seem to exist for the sake of effects—not the effects for the songs.

The theatrical qualities of the music making were helped along occasionally by some tricky stage lighting. This concert was the second last in Northwestern university's history and enjoyment of music series.

Walter Wollwage, a member of the Civic orchestra's clarinet section, appeared as soloist with that organization yesterday in its second Orchestra hall concert of the season. Hans Lange conducted.

In the slow movement of the Mozart concerto Mr. Wollwage achieved a nice singing legato. There was enough flexibility to make the music expressive, but not so much as to send guardians of the Mozart tradition into fits. The rapid movements were clean and agile.

Flagstad Makes Peace with N. Y. Opera Director

New York, Feb. 4 (AP).—That backstage storm of artistic difference at the Metropolitan has rippled away, opera officials said tonight, and Kirsten Flagstad will be on hand Thursday matiné to sing Brunnhilde in Wagner's "Die Walküre."

Mme. Flagstad and Lauritz Melchior, top ranking Wagnerian tenor, had claimed that the 27 year old conductor, Erich Leinsdorf, was too inexperienced. Melchior last week, however, composed his differences, and tonight, said Metropolitan officials, so had Mme. Flagstad.

Opening Night Apple.

When a Chicagoan who went to New York for the opening of John Barrymore's My Dear Children went backstage to see Barrymore before the performance, the actor showed him a box on his dressing table. He beamed with pleasure as he opened it to show its contents. Inside was a red apple—the opening night red apple of Barrymore tradition. Ethel Barrymore had sent it. John was as pleased as if it had been the Kohinoor diamond, our informant reports.

Encouragement-to-Young-Students Note.

Allan Clark, tall, blue eyed Santa Fe sculptor who spent last week in Chicago, and who is planning retrospective exhibit of his work in Santa Fe next summer, once studied under Alben Polasek at the Art Institute. During that time he ushered in Chicago theaters and concert halls, and he was ushering at the Auditorium when Galli-Curci made her sensational American debut with the Chicago opera. He was thrilled to be present on that memorable occasion. Little did the admiring student know that some five years later he would do a head of the singer and some sculpture for the gardens of her home in the Catskills. He hopes to borrow the head for next summer's exhibition. A head done by Clark that belongs to the Walter S. Brewsters also will travel southwest for the show.

AT a cocktail party at home in North State parkway Saturday afternoon Mrs. William Henry Bush announced the engagement of her daughter, Caroline, to Frederick Latham Emeny of Cleveland, O. Mr. Emeny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick James Emeny of Salem, O.

The old house in which Miss Bush and her fiancé received the good wishes of their friends Saturday was built in 1887 by Miss Bush's father, the late Mr. Bush, and was the first residence to be built on the parkway. Miss Bush was born in the house and her debut reception was held there several seasons ago.

Miss Bush, an active member of the Chicago Junior league, serves on several charity boards. She attended the Shipley school and Vassar college, and spent one winter in Boston studying architecture, and another visiting friends in Peking, China.

Mr. Emeny is a graduate of the Hotchkiss school, of Cornell college, class of 1926, and of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. During the last ten years he has been associated with the Cleveland Trust company, of which he is now an officer.

BY CECIL SMITH.

To Glenda Farrell, resuming her career on the legitimate stage after a considerable interlude in the movies, belong whatever honors attach to the piece entitled "Thanks for My Wife." Miss Farrell is too conscientious a trouper to let an audience pass an entire evening without getting anything for its money. Toward the end of the second act of the present lame vehicle she tears thru a tempestuous scene of mixed fury and frustration in delightful style, managing briefly to hide the fact that she has neither a particularly plausible situation nor many good lines to aid her.

In an earlier day Alan Dinehart successfully discovered the public pulse with such light farce comedies as "Applesauce" and "The Patsy." He never pretended to any serious artistic aspiration at that time, and he does not in "Thanks for My Wife." But somehow, while he has been acting in nearly 80 movies, he has ceased to grow along with his public of the legitimate theater, and his collaborator, Joseph Carole, has not helped recover the formula.

"Thanks for My Wife" is one of those laborious attempts in which almost every line contains a gag that is obviously trying to work for its living. The first night audience took the authors' well meaning intentions in good part, snickering as often as possible and laughing generously whenever the cracks came off fairly well. The audience had to go more than halfway if it wanted to have much of a time, and this state of affairs hardly constitutes an encouraging augury for the success of the play either here or in New York.

When it is not devoting itself statically to long continued alternations of bantering sentences, the play presents a sort of "Taming of the Shrew" plot, with Miss Farrell a selfish actress who is finally brought into line by Mr. Dinehart, a newspaper columnist with an inexhaustible fund of grim personal insults. Lyle Talbot appears as a milksop who, having married Miss Farrell, cannot bring himself to brandish the necessary whip over her.

Except for Miss Farrell's, and in lesser measure Jack Smart's, the performances, individually and collectively, are of stock company caliber, and so is the unhappy stage setting, an example, I suppose, of "Hollywood modern."

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 4.—Don't be surprised if Richard Greene elopes with Virginia Field immediately after "I Was an Adventuress" winds up. Incidentally, Von Stroheim, Zorina, and Director Greg Ratoff have had more temperamental explosions in the making of that flicker than even this town remembers. Not only temperament, but backbiting. Gerard [General Electric Swope's son, John] is making candid shots of Barbara Trippett. She writes for a local sheet.

Joan Crawford out stepping with Lee Bowman, the well dressed menace from Venice. . . . Rosalind Russell has become John McClain-conscious. . . . The Bob Hope-John [NBC] Royal feud rumors are daffy.

The Jack Benny program, moving ahead of Edgar Bergen for the first time, now tops every program on the air, either half hour or hour program. Benny, Bergen, Bing Crosby, and Fibber McGee and Molly rate 1, 2, 3, 4. Bad weather all over the country is responsible for the rise in radio ratings, according to movie magnates' reasoning. It's a pretty good guess at that.

Bank roll behind those new newsreel theaters springing up around the country has been contributed by young Angle Duke, Eddie Reeves, and the Sheftel heir. . . . Countess Di Frasso and Georges Metaxa in town. . . . At the Troc, Orson Welles and Marlene Dietrich in a huddle. . . . Recommended: Fred Astaire, Eleanor Powell, and George Murphy in "Broadway Melody of 1940," the greatest dancing musical that this town ever has cheered. They are having a meeting tomorrow to decide. . . . Robert Benchley is ailing. . . . The Jack Bennys will adopt another baby to keep Joan company. . . . Did Louise Stanley and Addison Randall get hitched secretly?

Since the release of his flicker Kay Kyser's radio prestige has spurted. . . . When the Rudolph Isings unravel she will wed Edward Byron. . . . Renee Torres and Edward Ashley, Metro actor, are running a fever. . . . Recommended: Edward G. Robinson in "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet," which is about as awkward a marquee title as you could dream up. Robinson, one of the fine craftsmen of the industry, turns in a splendid portrayal. . . . Now Capt. Aeneas Mackenzie is telephoning Bette Davis [say, I don't blame him].

Harry Kaufman, Shubert producer, planed out with Ruby Keeler's signature for the Al Jolson show. . . . The Chaplin flicker will cost about $1,700,000. In line with the new movie policy to abandon B films in favor of longer pictures such as "Gone with the Wind," Chaplin's film will run about two hours. . . . John Barrymore bet local pals that he'd crack every New York front page when his show opened there. He did. . . . June Lang tells chums that she really cares for McKinley Bryant. It seems to be mutual. . . . Starlet Peggy Moran and Joe Pasternak are a rhapsody in breathlessness. . . . Joe Breen's daughter got hitched a few days after the Hays office boss and his pretty wife celebrated their 26th anniversary. . . . Reginald Gardiner's best audience is Wendy Barrie, and vice versa.

A Quaker Gray Is Surprise Hit of New Season

BY REA SEEGER.

While early spring shoppers swarm around the clothes in navy blue, there's another crowd gloating over the newest wave of gray. The surprise color promotion of the season, it's taking money from the clothes collectors with ease and speed.

This is a gray that is superflattering, not one of the cold, shivering gray tints so trying even for the most vital personality. There are no under shadows of blue or steel to try the complexions, but a smoky, subtle tone that works fashion magic as the basic color for costume accessories in high shades.

The startling duet scheme of red and yellow is a vivid example of one exciting idea to wear with gray, so are the tangerine and jade mixups or the handsome accents of dubonnet or copper. It's a lovely Quaker gray shade that is so appealing and fresh with crisp starch-white buttons, cuffs, frills down the front of the bodice top and the many collar and cuff sets of fine sheer white.

Quaker gray comes in simple daytime dresses of sheer wool, crinkled crêpe, silk and wool combines, and in the snappiest two piece suit ensembles ever unpacked. See the suits soon, for they'll establish some sort of sales record for going out fast. One dark gray wool frock with buttons down the front from neck to hem has a gray and white checked jacket. The checks are about an inch square. And how that jacket fits the figure!

Another light gray wool dress has one of those gray and white stripe jackets, with the vertical stripes, turned at right angles at the hipline, used for tailored trim. Dressmaker type suits in Quaker gray are the talk of the town. Most of them consist of a flattering dress parade duet of dress and a matching jacket trimmed with fine handwork in bands, quilting and stitchery.

New dramatic dinner gowns are of Quaker gray. One luscious lace creation is cut with long fitted sleeves, high neckline fore and aft and a figure revealing silhouette. Another is made with a gored full skirt of smoke gray stiffened fine net over a matching silk underskirt.

Good morning!

Take one loving, hapless young married pair, their serious minded male offspring, about 4 years old, the offspring's adored and ridiculous dog, Daisy, of uncertain parentage, the husband's boss, a flyer off the handle-er but with a heart of gold, and you have the main characters and ingredients in the "Blondie" series—adapted from Chic Young's cartoon strip.

Mama Blondie, Papa Dagwood, Baby Dumpling, and Dog Daisy live in a little house in a little suburb. Every morning the paper boy whistles, Daisy dashes out thru her own particular hole in the door, grabs the paper, and carries it in.

Then comes breakfast, then Papa's spectacular dash for the train, tripping over—invariably—the postman and spilling all the poor chap's mail. Then—well, then this trip, Blondie takes Baby Dumpling to school for the first time, broken-hearted of course, over the growing up of her son.

Baby Dumpling loses Daisy. The dog catcher finds her. She is rescued from the pound by a trained nurse, who gives her to a poor little rich girl who has been unable to walk for some time because of sickness. A motherless little girl whose worried father has given orders that she's NOT to have a dog and NOT to play with children.

Baby Dumpling sets out to search for Daisy and then HE can't be found. But does he turn out to be the little hero and wonder worker! SOME dumpling!

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. At Honebyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. The two girls change places—and in two weeks' of freedom, Cynthia marries Michael Alloway without telling him of her disgrace. After the honeymoon, Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to his job in Malta without her and she returns to prison. There she discovers she is going to have a baby. Cynthia breaks prison. Explaining her disappearance as a lapse of memory, Cynthia goes to stay with Michael's mother and sister, Marion, at Cloutleigh. Rory Clarke trails her there and blackmails her. Scotland Yard connects Cynthia with Rory Clarke. Detective Stevens seeks to interview Cynthia and arouses Marion's suspicions. Cynthia attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael, but is arrested at the airport. Her marriage on a date when she was supposed to be in prison clears her, tho Detective Inspector Rason still works on the case. Cynthia goes to Malta. While Bessie is applying for a job from Marion, Detective Stevens calls. He makes a date with Bessie.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

A WARNING TELEGRAM.

A crack of light showed under the last door on the right of the passage. Bessie walked to it quickly on tiptoe. With one movement she opened the door—ah, it was not locked!—swung it wide and marched in.

"O, I'm sorry!" she said brightly. "They told me you were up here and I took it for granted this would be a sitting room. I'd better go down again. Whatever are you doing?"

Stevens, who had jerked round from the table, gave her a long, hard look. She affected not to notice it, but came up to the table and peered at what he held. It was a short cylinder of cardboard at one end of which a rim of rolled white paper was still showing. When Bessie had been given her wardress's certificate, it had been sent to her rolled in a thick cardboard tube, just like that, but longer.

"What's in there?" she persisted innocently. "Fingerprints?"

"I shouldn't wonder," snapped Stevens. She thought he looked both embarrassed and suspicious and, however irrationally, her belief grew that, rolled in that cardboard, was her written statement to Miss Alloway and that he was sending it to Scotland Yard.

"Perhaps you'll wait downstairs," he suggested, pushing the paper home inside the roll. And she saw nothing for it but to agree.

She went slowly down and sat by the parlor fire until he joined her. His manner had changed again and he was chatty and amusing while he took her out to the car; and she answered him pleasantly and laughed at his jokes. But her thoughts were racing faster than the racing wheels.

Best look at things squarely. Suppose the police got to know that she, as a prison-wardress, had been in charge of Miss Cynthia—"No. 63, Clara Brown"—at Honebyker. It might set them guessing a lot. Well, guesses had to be proved.

She was pleased to hear her own voice quite ordinary, not forced or nervous. She even began to feel a little proud of herself. So far, after all, she had been pretty sharp. If only she could look ahead a bit, she might keep the start she had gained.

By the time the suburbs of Taunton were reached, she had managed to keep up her chatter with her companion and yet have what she herself called "a good think." It seemed to her that the one weak spot in their armour was her inability to show that she had really taken that fortnight's holiday from Honebyker. If only she had thought of it before, she might have arranged something like an alibi with her cousin in Camden Town. Or with Miss Cynthia herself.

"That's right." Stevens got out nimbly. "I'll be gone—" he glanced at his watch—"about 12 minutes—well, say 20."

Bessie had no intention of sitting in a stuffy car for anything like that time. She asked the driver which was the biggest cinema. The Regal, he told her.

"All right. Tell the gentleman when he comes out that I'm walking there. I get cold, waiting."

She had already sighted a taxi-rank and now made for it. "The head postoffice and hurry," she ordered. Fortunately, it was not far. And more fortunately still, for her purpose, it was fairly busy. At the telegraph counter, at least, there were a number of people waiting.

Bessie rapidly wrote out her telegram. She had to fill in the address from memory, which was difficult. Then she wrote her message—and that proved more difficult still. At last, she simply put—"Remember I was at your wedding. Best of luck—Bessie." It was not a bit subtle, as she would have liked, but it did warn Miss Cynthia to say just that, if she were asked.

Bessie took the message to the counter, put 4 half-crowns on it and pushed it out of her turn, under the grill. Without waiting for her change, she left the office and, having dismissed the taxi, walked rapidly to the Regal.

In the meantime Stevens pursued his own lawful occasions. The roll of cardboard, now addressed to Rason at Scotland Yard, was delivered personally to the guard of the London train, who gave him a receipt for it. Then a telephone call to Rason himself.

"Yes? That you, Stevens?"

The echo reminded Stevens uncomfortably of Bessie's abrupt appearance. He glanced over his shoulder before he explained what the roll of paper contained.

"And there's another thing, sir. If you get any new information as to where Clarke's likely to be tomorrow, will you let me know where the call comes from? . . . Thanks."

And now a second call, of a very different nature. From his pocket Stevens took a scent-spray, filled with water. The use of a scent-spray on a telephone is one of the many tricks Scotland Yard has learned from the underworld.

He dialed the Monar at Cloutleigh and asked to speak to Miss Alloway. As Marion answered, the scent-spray was brought into action.

Now the soft hiss made by a scent-spray is the only device by which a person using the telephone can create an impression at the other end that the connection is faulty. The soft hiss becomes a disturbing crackle.

"Ah, Miss Alloway! You know my voice, don't you?"

"No, I don't. I can barely hear you. There's a loud crackling."

"Not at my end—I can hear you. Stainham speaking. Didn't you hear me? S-t-a-i-n-h-a-m."

"What do you want?" faltered Marion.

"I want to see you. I'm at Taunton. Meet me in the station buffet at 12 o'clock tomorrow. . . . O, yes, you do know what I want to see you about. You can guess quite easily. Twelve o'clock tomorrow then. Good-by."

When Detective-Inspector Stevens rejoined his guest, she was wholeheartedly shop-gazing near the cinema, and her unaffected smile as she saw him approach made him regret, not for the first time, his profession. Such a healthy, simple-minded country girl she looked, smart and up-to-date in her pretty hat and fur-collared coat; unspoiled, he thought, by town life. . . . Stevens sighed. He hoped that her secret would prove an innocent one—he had only been able to make out the word "PRIVATE" on that piece of paper. After all, many inoffensive facts were private.

They settled down companionably to watch the film. Bessie genuinely enjoyed herself. She had the power of pushing aside her worries once she could do no more to avert them. All the same, she remained sufficiently on her guard to return vague generalities to her escort's most skillful "leads." Never, he reflected, had he met a less expansive girl.

Remembering Names Among Social Graces

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate, Co., Inc.]

"My fiancé gave me a terrific scolding the other evening, which resulted in a quarrel, and I want you to decide if I was so in the wrong. We met a friend of his to whom I had been introduced before and I called him by the wrong name. A little later on in the evening my fiancé was speaking of Tom M——, also an old friend of his, and I asked who he was. At this my fiancé blew off and told me that I never remembered the names of any of his friends.

"POLLY."

Undoubtedly the man was in an irritable mood, as any one may find him or herself in at times. Forgetting names was not in this instance the crime, but forgetting the names of your fiancé's friends held a deeper meaning to him. His friends didn't count with you, not enough to have you remember their names.

The trick, of course, is not to quarrel, to apologize for what you could call your stupid memory, and rack the brain quickly for some little item of recollection in connection with the man.

There's nothing quite so engaging, flattering, as to have a person you met a long time ago and whom you never expected to be remembered by, address you by name, is there? This memory feat comes with practice and getting the name right in the beginning, saying it over and associating some idea with it that will more firmly implant it in the memory.

If there are eggs in the icebox when that "what on earth shall I have for lunch" question arises, there is your answer.

Eggs are one of our least expensive and most nutritious foods, and they are adapted for use in a thousand different savory luncheon dishes.

Scrambled eggs are ordinary, but scrambled eggs, well cooked, are a tasty and nourishing lunch for the whole family. And there are dozens of ways to make scrambled eggs seem unusual. After describing the best way to scramble eggs I'll suggest some of these.

Scrambled Eggs.

[Serves Three or Four.]
2 tablespoons butter
4 eggs
¼ cup top milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Melt the butter in the top compartment of a double boiler. If desired butter may be browned over direct heat. Place over hot water. Beat eggs slightly with a fork and add top milk, cream, salt, and pepper. Cook slowly in the double boiler until the mixture is fluffy and creamy, stirring it away from the sides and bottom of the cooker. As soon as the eggs have cooked just the way you like them [I hope that's creamy, and not dry] remove from heat at once and serve, on or with hot, buttered toast.

WAYS OF DRESSING UP SCRAMBLED EGGS.

1. Add a teaspoon or more of minced parsley just before serving.

2. Add a teaspoon or more of minced chives. This makes an extremely palatable dish. If there are no chives available make it finely minced green onion tops. Lacking these, use minced onion.

3. Substitute canned tomatoes for the top milk.

4. Sauté slices of fresh tomato in butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper and, for each serving, top two browned tomato slices with scrambled eggs.

5. Add ¼ cup finely cut or grated cheese to the recipe.

6. Add ¼ cup finely chopped ham, fish, or chicken to the recipe, or that much shredded dried beef.

7. Brown a teaspoon of minced onion, a tablespoon finely cut celery, and a tablespoon chopped green pepper in butter before adding the eggs. Add a teaspoon of catsup and 2 tablespoons grated cheese to the recipe.

8. Add ¼ cup chopped crisp bacon and 2 tablespoons chopped ripe olives.

Poached eggs are ordinary, too, but serve poached eggs with a sauce and they'll seem extraordinarily good. Plain white sauce may be used, or white sauce to which cheese, parsley, chives or other good things have been added.

Pot Holders and Plate Mats

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Hexagonal pot holders and hot plate mats have lent themselves to the Mexican theme with the use of stripes. The pot holder is crocheted of carpet warp, string, or cotton with green, yellow, and blue alternating stripes against a white or natural colored ground. A heavy, eight ply cotton cord, or carpet warp in two strands, creates unusual hot plate mats for informal dining.

For instructions in crocheting the hexagonal hot plate mats and pot holders, No. X-291, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Signal cards have very little meaning to the beginner, superficial meaning to the average player, and complex meaning to the expert. Their obvious function of encouraging or discouraging the lead of a certain suit often is less important than another meaning, which is perfectly illustrated in the hand shown below:

NORTH
♠ K Q 8
♥ Q 5 4 2
♦ 7

WEST

SOUTH
♠ 9 6
♥ J 10 9 6 3
♦ None
♣ Q J 10 6 5 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	4 clubs	4 diamonds
Pass	5 diamonds	Pass	Pass
Pass

South's attempt to shut out adverse bidding was well taken but was futile against West's excellent hand and safe suit. North opened the king of clubs and his partner threw the queen on the trick. After much thought, North decided that there was a grave risk of declarer as well as dummy holding no more clubs. Afraid, therefore, to allow a ruff and a discard by a club continuation, which to his mind the queen demanded, he shifted to the king of spades. Declarer had no trouble from that point. He won with the ace, took out North's trump, and led a spade toward dummy's jack. North won the queen, but, of course, could make no other trick, and the contract was thus easily fulfilled.

An expert sitting in the North position would have understood South's play of the club queen to mean much more than a request for a club continuation. In situations of this type an expert's play of a high card carries a very strong double meaning. He expects the leader to realize from the bidding that he has a great many of the suit led. The high card, therefore, is not so much a positive signal to continue as it is a negative signal informing partner in no uncertain terms that the signaler cannot "stand" a shift of suits. In other words, the signaler, by denying strength in any other suit, says to his partner:

"Do not jeopardize any of your honors or tenaces by attempting to 'find me' with a supporting card."

Had North read this signal correctly, he would have realized that to lay down the spade king was simply to jeopardize a trick. He would merely have exited with his singleton trump, waiting for the spade lead to come to him. He thereby would have won two tricks in spades instead of only one.

It is important to note in this connection that with four spades in both declarer's and dummy's hands, a stripping process by the declarer could not have availed. North, thrown on lead with the spade queen, could well afford to give declarer a ruff and a discard since it would do him no good to get rid of a spade in either hand.

"Where did you find it?"

"It was lucky for me I decided to run that Lost and Found want ad in the Tribune."

Whenever you lose anything of value be sure to telephone a Lost and Found want ad to the Chicago Tribune. Thousands of dollars' worth of property is restored each year to owners who advertise in the Lost and Found column of the Tribune.

Regardless of what you may have lost, or where in Chicago or suburbs you may have lost it, there is a good chance that a Tribune reader will find it.

Every day of the week, the Tribune has more than 780,000 circulation right in metropolitan Chicago. This is from 335,000 to 500,000 more than other Chicago newspapers sell in Chicago and suburbs.

Further, the Tribune is Chicago's big want ad market place, carrying far more want advertising and, as a result, attracting far more want ad readers than any other Chicago newspaper.

Call SUPERIOR 0100 WANT AD-VISER and ask for Miss Miller if you wish to recover lost valuables. Miss Miller will help you word your want ad. If your name is in the phone book, you may charge your Tribune want ad.

As an extra service to Tribune Lost and Found advertisers, all such ads are kept for three months after publication in a special register open to the public at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn St. and in Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan Ave.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

John Peter Gottselig and Ebenezer Goodfellow, two of the old gaffers of the National Hockey league, last night decided there is too much kid talk going around the big time. They untangled themselves from their long gray beards, used their canes for hockey sticks, and brought about a 1 to 1 tie between the Chicago Blackhawks and the Detroit Red Wings before a gathering of 12,341 in the Chicago Stadium.

John scored the Hawk goal late in the second period and Ebbie matched it in the third session. Those were the only goals made in a game which was highly satisfactory from the speed standpoint, even tho the Hawks weren't salved by another victory, such as the Toronto triumph which followed those road lickings by the Boston Bruins and New York Americans.

Wings Unbeaten in Last Six.

Last night's draw left the Hawks in sole possession of fourth place, a game and a half ahead of the Wings. The latter were allowed to go home smirking over a six game record in which they have not been charged with a defeat. This summation, of course, now includes two ties with the Hawks.

There had been no scoring in the first period, but the Wings were given a break in the last two seconds when George Allen was penalized for hooking Alex Motter in a Hawk foray on the Detroit cage. Detroit did its darndest in the opening minute and 58 seconds of the second period, but so did the Hawk defense and Allen was freed before any damage could be done.

Shortly after Earl Seibert had charged in on the Wing goal and relayed a pass to Les Cunningham which only a diving stop by Goalie Cecil Thompson halted, Seibert and Ed Wares were sent off for a minor joust.

Detroit Protests Goal.

Just after they were freed, Billy Thomas smacked Cecil Dillon into the south boards and was sentenced for charging, while the stunned Wing was taken below for repairs. In the 13th minute, Motter, attempting to halt Cully Dahlstrom, had to trip him to save a possible goal, and was deported for his action.

After Motter came back, the Hawks continued to press the attack. A wild pile up occurred in the 17th minute, resulting in the first goal of the evening and a great deal of conversation, mostly by Detroit. After Referee Ion had calmed one and all, including Manager Adams of the Wings, Gottselig was credited with the goal and Phil Hergesheimer and Dahlstrom with assists. Old Johnny flicked the puck past Thompson at least a foot, but the Wings claimed Tiny had sat on it before it entered. Ion and Goal Judge Joe Boyle ruled otherwise.

Wings Tie It Up.

Goodfellow's tying goal, coming on passes from Motter and Sid Howe, was delivered in the fourth minute of the final period on a neat backhand shot by Ebbie from 12 feet out. From that time until the end the Hawks dominated the offensive action by a slight margin, for the Wings were not remiss in carrying the puck themselves. The finish of the regular time found Joe Cooper and Cunningham collaborating in a drive that found Thompson sprawled on his back.

In the overtime period the Wings cherished their tie, while the Hawks bore down to score the winning goal, but to no avail.

In the Wake of the News

THREE new players have found places on the University of Wisconsin basketball squad as a result of last week's final exams which threw Bob Schwartz, Bob Nelson, and Bob Sims out of varsity employment. . . . The fortunate trio includes Claude York of Sioux Falls, S. D., a regular back on the football team last fall; Aaron Karp of Madison, and Ray Kayon of Racine. . . . Oze Simmons, former star half back at the University of Iowa, recently received his degree in absentia three years after he left the campus to go on tour with his own colored basketball team. . . . Simmons, who during the summer is engaged in playground work in Paterson, N. J., finished the requirements for his bachelor of science degree in physical education by correspondence study. . . . Larry MacPhail, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, does nothing by halves. . . . His most recent grand gesture was the purchase of a 45 foot power yacht. . . . When Dick Fahrbach, Northwestern's sophomore swimming star, competed for Lane Tech he broke Art Highland's city high school record for the 100 yard dash. Now Dick's greatest ambition is to better Highland's Northwestern record for the same distance. . . . The University of Alabama will play night football next fall. . . . Winners of events in the Illinois relay carnival Feb. 17 will receive portable radios. . . . Potsy Clark, new coach of the Detroit Lions, never was on a losing football team during his two years as a player at Illinois. . . . His varsity competition was limited by previous service at Williams college. . . .

Dick Fahrbach.

Potsy Clark.

American league schedule makers apparently are convinced that there is no use trying to interest the fans of St. Louis in the Browns. . . . The team was not given a single holiday date at home in 1940. . . . Vallie Eaves, Shreveport pitcher who finished the 1939 season with the White Sox, pitched 11 games in which the opposition was held to five hits or less in the Texas league. . . . Aldo Spoldi, the lightweight fighter, is an enthusiastic patron of grand opera. . . . Nine thousand five hundred University of Minnesota students participate in sports. . . . John Rucker, New York Giant outfield candidate, hails from Crabapple, Ga., population 50. . . . Benny Oosterbaan, Michigan basketball coach, is the school's all-time scoring champion in that sport and his assistant—John Townsend—ranks second.

FREISINGER WINS NORTH AMERICAN ICE SKATE TITLE

Maddy Horn Retains Women's Crown.

Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP).—Leo Freisinger, 23 year old Chicagoan, came up with a rush in the final day of the North American outdoor speed skating championship races today to win the men's senior title from Del Lamb of Milwaukee.

Trailing Lamb by 10 points in the scoring race, Freisinger placed second to the Milwaukee youth in a bitterly fought 440 yard dash, then came from far behind in the three-quarter mile race to win by inches.

Lamb Second, Leighton Third.

Freisinger's three day point total was 120 and Lamb's 110. Defending Champion Chuck Leighton of Minneapolis, Minn., was third with 90.

Madeline [Maddy] Horn of Beaver Dam, Wis., retained the women's championship by skating to decisive triumphs in the 440 yard and mile races.

Maddy announced her retirement from competiton with today's racing, insisting that her decision was final. Miss Horn reconsidered an earlier retirement announcement to enter the North American meet after a dispute with skating officials.

Miss Horn amassed 140 points, winning four races and placing second in another. Louise Herou of Minneapolis was second with 70.

Ronchetti and Stack Fight.

Freisinger had a crowd of nearly 20,000 screaming encouragement as he skated wide on the last lap of the three-quarter mile and passed the field of six to win half a stride ahead of Joe Bree of New York and Ken Bartholomew of Minneapolis.

Vic Ronchetti of Chicago and Frank Stack of Sudbury, Ont., bumping as they rounded a turn near the five mile finish, fell to fighting briskly while their rivals skated on.

The intermediate girls' championship went to Bunny Lawler of Chicago, who won the half mile for her second victory of the meet.

Chicago Skiers Take a Long Ride and Have a Fall or Two

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

This became evident today as 240 devotees—or would-bes—of the gentle [if you can take it] art of skiing left Chicago 310 miles behind for five hours' skiing in Michigan's upper peninsula.

They wrapped themselves around trees with the dexterity of a Virginia creeper. They performed aerial feats with entangled legs and skis [to defeated purpose] that rivaled the Ballet Russe.

For each feather stitch they implanted on the pine studded, snowy hillsides they donated a five foot backward slide. Yet some actually skied.

Board Train Before Dawn.

The 240 are members of the Snow Train Ski club, organized to bring Chicagoans and the ski country within easy reach of one another. Long before Chicago's skyline was visible this morning, they clambered aboard their special snow train to be taken to what the local Iron Mountain editor describes as "the region of magnificent distances."

Iron Mountain, a town of 14,000 nestled snugly beside its mountains, turned out in fine style to receive the visitation. A band played, to the rivalry of the Bavarian accordion trio, who aboard the train had tried to inject the old daredevil spirit of skiing into 240 with a jaunty rendition of such surprising ski melodies as "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "The Beer Barrel Polka."

Costumes in Proper Tradition.

The 240 were in fine style for the villagers, too. Their costumes were magnificent—most of them shiningly new, all very proper, too—the correct sweaters, sox, shoes, windbreakers, even knapsacks bundled on in the true Finnish military tradition.

Many had worked themselves into physical condition for the delignt ahead with several hours at the train bar. They carried gorgeous skis, the envy of any small boy.

As they were driven out along beautifully winding roads they were told of the ski jump, with its 150 foot steel tower and a total drop of 500 feet. They could attain a 60 mile an hour speed on it, they were told, and travel 932 feet in one swoop.

Allegiance Divided.

A crowd of about 3,000 gathered to witness the prowess of the Snow Train Ski club. Many stayed at the ski jump, where the seasoned skiers performed. An equal number, however, spent the whole afternoon watching what one small boy derisively termed "amateur antics."

This is where the costumes were the most splendid, the skis the newest, the endeavor most deadly, the direction entirely unpredictable.

This is where the villagers came in, rescuing the entangled, anointing the wounded, cutting steering poles from the Norway pines.

They helped solve such domestic tangles as that of the husband, legs and skis twisted into a Chinese puzzle, who screamed to his equally helpless wife, "Stop that damned laughing, or go home!"

Joe Louis Puts on Real Show for 800 Fans

Pompton Lakes, N. J., Feb. 4 (AP).—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, weighing 204 pounds and apparently in prime shape, treated 800 fans to a brisk six round workout today in his training camp here. He took on four partners and with two of them stood toe to toe and slugged it out—until they backed away. He plans no drill tomorrow but will go six rounds each on Tuesday and Wednesday in final preparation for his title fight with Arturo Godoy, the Chilean challenger, in New York Friday.

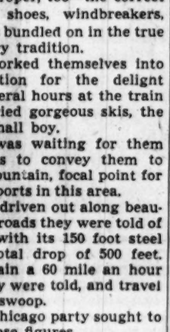
Oliver Wins Phoenix Golf on Final 64

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 4 (AP). — Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., professional, won the $3,000 Phoenix Open tournament today by scoring a sizzling 64 on the final 18 holes, giving him first prize of $700.



Ed Oliver.

The 64 set a new competitive record for the Phoenix Country club course and brought Oliver's score for the 54 hole route to 205, 8 under par, but 7 above the figure which last year won the tournament for Byron Nelson, National Open champion. Today Nelson finished out of the money with 215.

It was his second straight tournament victory. Last week he won the 36 hole Bing Crosby event at Rancho Santa Fe, Cal.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., who finished the first 18 yesterday in the lead with a 65 and was tied at the 36 hole mark with E. J. Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., finished with 210, a stroke in front of Harrison.

DE PAUL, LOYOLA, PLAY TONIGHT IN DOUBLE HEADER

Games Tonight

Mexico City "Y" at Ohio State.
DePauw at Iowa.
Loyola and Manhattan in Coliseum.
De Paul and Louisiana State in Coliseum.
Creighton at Tulsa.
St. Louis at Oklahoma A. and M.
Washington U. at Missouri Mines.
Millikin at Illinois College.
Evansville U. at Illinois Wesleyan.
Missouri at Kansas State.
Coe at Beloit.

Double header basketball activity will be resumed tonight in the Coliseum, where De Paul will play Louisiana State university and Loyola will clash with Manhattan college.

The Louisiana State team shapes up as one of the toughest De Paul will encounter for the rest of the season. The southerners are a factor in the title race in the Southeastern conference.

Outstanding is Charlie Bozeman, a 6 foot 3 inch center, who scored 203 points last season to lead southern scorers. In conference games Bozeman averaged about 12 points a game. Paul Brotherton and Griff Vance, forwards, have scored 64 and 58 points, respectively, in five conference games this season.

De Paul Regulars Ready.

De Paul will depend on the starting lineup which has brought the school national recognition this season. Lou Possner and Ed Norris will be at forward, Elmer Gainer is the center, and Capt. Stan Szukala and Ed Sachs will play guard. First reserves are Ted Skrodski, Bob Wozny, and Chet Tollstam.

The Loyola-Manhattan game will give Chicago fans a comparison between the brands of double header basketball played here and in New York. The Jaspers are one of the regular home teams in Madison Square Garden.

Prepare for Charity Game.

Following their games tonight the De Paul and Loyola teams will start preparations for their sixth annual charity game to be played Friday night in the Stadium. The game will be sponsored by the Catholic Youth organization, the proceeds going to the C. Y. O. Needy Youth fund.

The charity games between the two started in 1933 when they split two games. Loyola has won the other three.

LANDIS TOASTED A NICE BROWN AT WRITERS' DINNER

New York, Feb. 4 (AP).—Commissioner K. M. Landis was the goat of honor at the New York baseball writers' dinner tonight, but such items as Ernie Lombardi's world series siesta and the National League's latest defeat in the All-Star competition were not neglected as the writers made merry per annual custom.

Landis' recent freeing of 91 players and subsequent statements on baseball's farm systems provided the background from which was drawn most of the humor. Babe Ruth was declared a free agent as Landis [writers' version] went on the hunt for something "on" the Yankees, finally ending up asking if "Ed Barrow covers up the radiator of his car."

The serious side of the evening saw the presentation to Barrow, president of the Yankees, of a plaque for meritorious service to the game, and another award to Bucky Walters, Cincinnati pitcher, as the outstanding player of the year.

In Vincennes the Sun-Commercial holds its championship bouts tonight. This Hoosier team becomes the fifth chosen to enter the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 26, 27, and 28. Three other championship teams will be chosen this week.

Franklin and Brown Face Rivals Tonight

Johnny Brown, 1935 Golden Gloves bantamweight champion, and Lem Franklin, 1937 international Golden Gloves heavyweight title holder, will open their 1940 campaign in two bouts of eight rounds in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Brown is matched with Henry Huerta, Peoria featherweight, and Franklin with Buddy Millard, Houston, Tex., fighter, now making his headquarters in Indianapolis.

Brown had four contests last year, winning two decisions, scoring one draw, and losing one verdict.

Franklin engaged in six matches in 1939. He scored three victories, two by knockouts, had one draw, and lost two. Big Lem's victims were Perk Daniels, Abe Simon, and Lee Savold. He knocked out Savold in the second round in Marigold March 20.

Jack [Tiger] Moore, Arkansas heavyweight wrestler, and Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer will meet in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening.

It was reported yesterday that Joe Louis may put his heavyweight championship on the block against Johnny Paycheck in Madison Square Garden in April.

No Minnesota Athletes Hold Scholarships

Only 61 Gopher athletes are employed by the University of Minnesota, none is enrolled thru scholarships, and only nine were among those who received loans from the student affairs office last year.

These facts were included in the figures announced yesterday by Western conference headquarters in an outline of conditions on the Minnesota campus in amplification of the Big Ten report on the conference as a whole made public Jan. 29. The statistics concerning Minnesota were released as the fifth of a series.

Jobs Are Plentiful.

The report adds, however, that due to the large population of Minneapolis and St. Paul [largest in the conference outside Chicago] off campus employment is easily available for Minnesota students. Sixty-one university athletes were listed among those holding such jobs, ranging from clerks to ushers in motion picture theaters. The amount of salaries paid for this work was not included in the statistics.

Of the 9,214 undergraduate students enrolled at Minnesota, 1,810 are listed as athletes—either members of varsity squads or freshman numeral winners. Of that number 61 receive pay for employment out of university or athletic department funds in accordance with Big Ten rules providing pay for services actually rendered and at a rate which would be paid a nonathlete. Their jobs vary from laborer to teaching assistant and therapist.

Nine Athletes Get Loans.

Seventeen athletes are employed on federal aid projects and averaged $122 for the year, the report states. The others averaged slightly less than $100 a year for their work. Athletes and nonathletes may obtain campus employment thru the university employment bureau.

No university scholarships for undergraduates exist at Minnesota, according to conference headquarters, altho a loan fund is maintained thru the student affairs office. Loans are granted on the basis of "industry, integrity, character, scholarship, need and general worthiness." Nine athletes were among the students at Minnesota who received such loans last year for a total amount of $436.75.

Gone with the Wind Not for Iceboats; Wind Is Gone

The wind failed the Calumet Ice Yacht club yesterday after one of three scheduled races had been run on Lake Calumet. As a result only eight of 20 ice boats on hand got a chance to compete. In the one race, over a six-mile course, Edward Teach, commodore of the club, led the "A" division and Hugo Witte, the "B" division of class E skeeter boats.

Eddie Davis' Casts Win in Tribune Meet

Eddie Davis, often a winner in Tribune casting events, added another victory to his record in last night's portion of the Skish tournament being held at the National Boat and Sports show on Navy Pier.

Davis, a member of the Jackson Park Casting club, scored 71. Miss Margaret Weaver of the Illinois Casting club was second with 65, and A. E. Eckwald, Chicago Fly Casting club, third with 60.

End Competition Tonight.

The club competition will be concluded tonight. All members of casting clubs who have not yet competed should report at the Tribune booth before 7:30. Trophies for the first three nights of competition will be distributed at the conclusion of tonight's casting.

Earl Garnsey of the Chicago Fly Casting club is leading all club casters by virtue of the 92 which he scored Saturday night. Sterling Shoemaker of the Jackson Park club is second with a 72 and Davis third on his 71. These three casters will be awarded Tribune trophies unless their scores are bettered tonight.

Large Crowd Attends.

Hubbard H. Erickson, manager of the boat and sports show, said that yesterday's crowd was one of the largest ever to attend the exhibit. Standing space around the casting pool was at a premium during the Tribune competition.

One of the featured visitors at the show today will be the United States' only woman game warden. She is Miss Ethel Kauphahn, who patrols the area around Alexandria, Minn.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

RETAILER SALES RISE ABOUT 2½ BILLION IN 1939

But Run Far Below Peak of 1937.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4 (AP).—Retail sales in 1939 amounted to $37,950,000,000, an increase of about $2,500,000,000 over 1938, the commerce department estimated today. The 1939 figure was about two billion under the 1937 recovery peak. Half of this difference was attributed by the department to lower prices.

Secretary Hopkins.

Secretary Hopkins, in announcing the estimates, said that the upswing was shared by all major business groups. Altho automobile sales were below 1937, they increased 28 per cent over 1938. Mail order houses showed the largest gain in general merchandise sales with a 12 per cent increase.

Some Lines Equal 1937.

The commerce department estimated that the quantity of food and general merchandise sold in 1939 was equal to that of 1937 and about 7 per cent above 1938.

Variety store sales climbed 5.5 per cent to $905,000,000, passing the previous high marks of both 1937 and 1929. Food sales rose 2 per cent to $9,095,000,000 and gasoline station sales gained 1 per cent to $2,428,000,000. Beer and liquor sales of $418,000,000 were recorded, an increase of 6 per cent. Eating and drinking places had indicated sales of $2,770,000,000, a gain of 3.5 per cent.

Other Indicated Gains.

Other indicated gains: Furniture and household appliance stores, 12.5 per cent; lumber, building, and hardware stores, 10 per cent; jewelry stores, 10 per cent; department, dry goods, and general merchandise stores, 6.5 per cent; apparel stores, 5.5 per cent.

The department also reported that exports of farm equipment declined 9 per cent during 1939 to a total of $68,506,716, despite a sharp increase in December shipments.

TRADE TREATIES HARM FARMERS, SAYS KNUTSON

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4 (AP).—Contending that the reciprocal trade agreements program had harmed agriculture, Representative Knutson [R., Minn.] said today that statistics of the agriculture department refuted the assertions of Secretaries Wallace and Hull that it had increased farm exports.

"The figures furnished by Mr. Wallace's own department show a tremendous falling off in the percentage of important agricultural exports," Knutson said. "It is shown that in 1929 we exported 44.9 per cent of our cotton production, 17 per cent of our wheat producton, 35.3 per cent of our tobacco production, and 5.7 per cent of our pork products. By 1938 we exported but 28.1 per cent of the cotton produced, 11.4 per cent of the wheat produced, 28.8 per cent of our tobacco production, and but 1-10 per cent of our total production of pork products."

WAR NEEDS LEAD CANADA TO OPEN CHICAGO OFFICE

Wartime needs of the Canadian fighting machine are believed to have caused the reopening in Chicago of the Dominion's trade commission office. Operating at present on an unofficial basis, the formal opening of the office is expected in two weeks.

W. J. Riddiford, who was transferred from a similar post in Panama, is in charge of the Chicago office. He said the primary function of the commission will be to increase Canadian exports to the United States.

Canada is exploiting every possibility to build up her exports in order to increase her dollar credits in this country for the purchase of airplanes and munitions.

Another function of the Chicago trade office will be to answer questions arising from the new regulations of the foreign exchange control board which supervises all Canadian foreign trade transactions.

Jewel Tea Tax Bill Soars, but Earnings Gain

Tax costs of the Jewel Tea company, have increased nearly fivefold in the last eight years, according to the company's annual statement for 1939 released yesterday. Despite the added tax load, the company showed a substantial increase in net earnings compared with 1938.

After provision for taxes, depreciation, profit sharing and reserves, Jewel Tea had net earnings of $1,583,177, or $5.65 per share of common stock in 1939, against $1,423,959, or $5.09 per share, in 1938. Total sales for the year increased about 5 per cent to $24,782,383 from $23,726,533 in 1938.

Blames Spending Policies.

Rising tax costs were attributed to "the spending policies of federal, state, and municipal governments" in the report. The following table shows the tax figures for the last eight years:

	Total tax.	Tax per shr. common stk.
1939	$1,137,256	$4.06
1938	1,100,415	3.93
1937	991,908	3.54
1936	850,605	3.04
1935	676,717	2.42
1934	589,069	2.10
1933	426,897	1.52
1932	248,457	.89

Blocked tea exports from China have been the principal interference with the company's business thru war conditions, the report disclosed.

On Jan. 29 stockholders voted to double the common stock authorization from 300,000 to 600,000 shares, of which 560,000 shares will be outstanding on March 1, 1940, according to the report.

Dividends Paid for Year.

The company paid regular dividends of $4 a share, a special dividend of $1 per share out of surplus, and a final dividend for the year of $1 a share in 1939.

On Dec. 30, 1939, the company's net working capital was $4,680,059 and the ratio of current assets to current liabilities was 3.81 to 1.

Earnings of Tidewater Associated Oil company in the final three months of last year were the largest for any quarter in the company's history, William F. Humphrey, president, announced.

Net income available for the common stock was $3,914,000, or 62 cents a common share. In the like period of 1938 net income for the common was $1,448,000, or 23 cents a common share.

NEW YORK FIGHT ON STOCK TAXES GAINS SUPPORT

New York, Feb. 4 [Special].—Another voice was added today to the mounting chorus of protests against this state's stock transfer taxes which have been blamed for the loss of jobs, businesses, and taxes.

Hundreds of management firms belonging to the Real Estate Board of New York undertook to marshal public opinion behind the bill in the state legislature which seeks a reduction in the levies.

Thousands of petitions, approved by the board's governors, were distributed to employés and tenants in apartment and business buildings thruout the city outlining the reasons why these taxes should be revised. New York state imposes a 3 cent tax on every share for less than $20 and a 4 cent tax on every share selling for more.

JAPANESE DICKER FOR VAST SUPPLY OF MEXICAN OIL

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 4 (AP).—United States oil interests today reported Japanese were negotiating with the Mexican petroleum administration for the purchase of 7,000,000 barrels of oil. These sources said the proposed deal involved both barter and cash and was being conducted by the Laguna corporation, which is part of the powerful Mitsui interests in Mexico. The deal would involve approximately one-third of Mexico's exportable oil surplus.

A foreign intelligence officer said the negotiations were part of the intensification of Japanese commercial activity in Mexico because of the fear of a United States embargo.

AMERICAN AIRLINES.

I read a few weeks ago that American Airlines had ordered 15 new Douglas transports. The company must be doing well if it has to add new planes. Please send me some information about the air line and its profit record.—T. K.

Answer: Largest of the four leading domestic air transport companies, American Airlines, Inc., operates an air passenger, mail, and express service between New York and Los Angeles and to other cities along or branching from its main route.

From two-thirds to three-fourths of the air line's total revenues are derived from passenger traffic, about 20 to 30 per cent from air mail, and the rest from express.

The present fleet of 56 transport planes will be augmented this year by the gradual addition of 20 Douglas DC-3 planes. The company has also ordered for delivery in 1941 of 15 new Douglas DC-4 planes.

American Airlines was formed in 1934 by the Aviation corporation to comply with the federal air mail act of 1934 which required that companies carrying mail be separated from other aircraft firms. Stock in American Airlines was distributed among stockholders of Aviation corporation.

Funded debt of American Airlines was reduced in December to $2,624,100 in 4½ per cent convertible debentures due 1941, held by Aviation corporation. The cut was accomplished by retiring $872,187 in similar non-convertible debentures also held by Aviation corporation. The funds for this redemption were obtained from the private sale of 50,000 shares of $10 par capital stock which brought net proceeds of $1,810,000. The remainder of the proceeds will be used to pay for new planes.

Including the 50,000 shares recently sold, the company now has outstanding about 352,000 shares of $10 par capital stock.

American Airlines participated in the strong advance made by the air industry in this country last year. For the first 10 months of 1939 the company's net income was $1,171,413, equal to $3.88 a share, more than five times the net profit in 1938, the previous peak year.

Total operating revenue, consolidated net income, and earnings per share of capital stock in recent years follow:

	Operating revenue.	Net income.	Earned per sh.
1935	$ 5,865,000	*$748,000	*$2.69
1936	8,334,000	4,589	0.02
1937	10,070,000	*94,000	*0.32
1938	11,332,000	213,000	0.74

*Net loss.

Total assets of the company on Oct. 31, 1939, according to its latest balance sheet, were $8,410,032. Current assets were $3,811,197 against current liabilities of $1,646,602.

COAL DIVISION STATES POSITION ON SALES PACTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4 (AP).—The bituminous coal division today said it planned to "deal cautiously" with regional marketing agencies formed by coal companies for the sale of bituminous coal.

In an annual report, the division, a unit of the interior department, said it recognized the possibility that the agencies might become useful adjuncts to the coal act. It added, however, that it also realized that "without careful administration and supervision, based upon actual experience, these agencies may be a useless expense upon the industry or prejudicial to nonmembers or to the proper interests of consumers."

The division said the marketing agencies were formed by combines of coal companies in the various producing fields who enter individually into contracts with the agency to sell their coal at fixed prices.

MOST OF WEAK BANKS WEEDED OUT, SAYS FDIC

Many Wobbly Units Are Merged.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4 (AP).—The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, created during the bank emergencies of 1933, asserted today it had "weeded out" nearly all the weak banks in the nation. When weak banks did not fail outright, the corporation explained in its annual report to members, the corporation put up the money to merge wobbly institutions into strong ones.

Because the FDIC insures depositors up to $5,000 apiece, its policy has been to spend a few million dollars to eliminate hazardous situations which if allowed to continue might cost the corporation much more, it was said.

Spent 72 Million in Year.

"Disbursement during 1939 of some $72,000,000 to protect the 393,000 depositors of 60 insured banks brought the program of rehabilitation of known problem banks near completion," the report said. "The few such cases remaining on the corporation's agenda should be corrected during the early months of 1940."

The weeding process in 1939 made a net reduction of 120 in the number of insured banks, which now total 13,589. Last year the corporation got 49 new members—including 22 banks already running but uninsured, and 27 new banks—but lost 169 members, of which 32 failed and the rest disappeared in mergers and voluntary liquidations. Outside FDIC members, there are 1,462 commercial, private, and mutual savings banks.

Many Closed or Merged.

Altogether in the six years of deposit insurance 315 insured banks have closed or been merged. Immediately after shutting down their 877,223 depositors were paid off by the FDIC 97.4 per cent of their $294,658,000 deposits. In 1939, alone, 60 banks either closed or received FDIC aid, and in these banks all except 816 of the 393,079 depositors were protected by the $5,000 insurance limit. Of the $157,704,000 deposits in them, 97.9 per cent was paid back immediately.

After paying losses and administrative expenses of $18,468,541 in six years, the corporation has piled up a surplus of $163,411,165, invested mostly in government bonds. The interest on investments alone has been almost sufficient to pay all losses and expenses, the report said.

STEEL OUTPUT IS REDUCED BY COLD WEATHER

Steel operations thruout the nation dropped with the temperature last week, the magazine Steel reported yesterday in its weekly review of the industry. Cold weather, the publication said, reduced activity in building materials, pipe, wire products, and galvanized sheets.

This, and the fact that January and February are normally quiet months for some steel consumers, reduced operations five points to 76.5 per cent of theoretical capacity. This is the lowest level since September, but compares favorably with 53 per cent a year ago.

However, the steel industry isn't worried, the magazine asserted.

Du Pont's Export Sales Rise 32 Per Cent Above 1938 Mark

New York, Feb. 4 [Special].—The pamphlet report of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. for 1939 today disclosed that the company's export sales rose 32 per cent above the 1938 total. These sales were 5 per cent of total dollar sales.

Lammot du Pont.

"A substantial part of this increase occurred since the outbreak of the war and appears to be due to the desire of foreign customers to increase their stocks, and to business from other customers who normally depend on European sources of supply for their regular peacetime requirements," Lammot du Pont, president, reported.

Sales and other operating revenues amounted to $298,833,238, compared with $235,409,426 in 1938. This increase was 27 per cent over the dollar revenues in 1938. Expressed on a tonnage basis, sales were estimated to have increased 32 per cent.

Sales prices of the company's products averaged 3 per cent lower in 1939 than in 1938. The company's wage rates averaged 3 per cent higher and at the end of the year averaged 7 per cent above the end of 1938.

Du Pont said current assets were $209,343,223 on Dec. 31. Such assets were $200,605,910 June 30, 1939, and $189,312,915 at the close of 1938. Current liabilities were listed as $47,142,623, against $29,672,749 and $27,807,577, respectively.

Cash stood at $119,701,749 and marketable securities at $9,981,000, at market value, compared with $112,990,232 and $13,062,396 securities at cost on June 30, and $92,228,572 cash and $22,266,031 securities at market at the end of 1938.

Net earnings were previously reported as $93,218,664, or $7.70 a common share.

Wheat, Corn Dip on Outlook for Big Supply

Wheat and corn prices last week declined to the lowest levels since early in December. Wheat fell 15 cents a bushel and corn 6 cents from the recent high marks.

Record world wheat supplies caused many holders of contracts to sell out, brokers said, and a substantial volume of liquidation came from speculators who had purchased wheat on the basis of the Dec. 1 crop condition report of the department of agriculture. The report showed the condition at the record low of 55 per cent of normal.

The department of agriculture estimated that the United States, Canada, and Argentina had about a billion bushels of wheat available for export on Jan. 1. This supply is four times as much as importing nations are expected to require in the next six months.

Expects Big Carryover.

The department predicted, on the basis of current conditions, that the world carryover of wheat into the 1940-'41 season will be about 1 billion 470 million bushels.

Partially offsetting this news as a market factor were reports from most European countries indicating that the recent severe cold wave may have damaged winter wheat. However, the growing season will not begin in the most southern sections of the northern hemisphere's wheat belts for a month or more, and little can be predicted until then regarding the possible acreage abandonment.

LUMBERMEN'S MUTUAL CASUALTY SETS NEW HIGH MARKS FOR YEAR

The Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company of Chicago in 1939 set new all-time high marks in earnings, premium income, assets, surplus, and dividends paid to policy holders, James S. Kemper, president, announced yesterday. He said that affiliated companies, including the American Motorists' Insurance company and the National Retailers' Mutual Insurance company, also completed the most successful year in their history.

Lumbermen's Mutual earnings totaled $6,408,642, an increase of $624,975 over 1938. Premiums written totaled $27,458,306, a gain of $546,627. Assets on Dec. 31, 1939, stood at $38,073,226, an increase of $3,901,248. Surplus was $5,000,000, an increase of $331,946.

Dividends paid to policy holders totaled $4,781,726, an increase of $35,841. Included in the assets were $17,320,324 cash.

"The satisfactory year which we enjoyed despite the adverse business conditions that prevailed in the first half of 1939 and the substantial rate reductions both in the automobile and the compensation field was due primarily to the careful underwriting policy of the company and to the coöperation of motorists in reducing accidents," Kemper said.

Owners of these securities must make up their minds whether they wish to deposit them (time for which has been extended to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, February 14) or sell them for cash. The unification plan, although accepted by 80% of the holders of the above securities is in danger of failure. Consider what your securities will be worth if that happens. Quick action is necessary.

Unless offerings are made at prices which the City regards as advantageous to it, they will not be accepted.

Furthermore NO TENDERS WILL BE ACCEPTED UNLESS THE TOTAL AMOUNT IS SUFFICIENT TO ACHIEVE THE CONSUMMATION OF THE B. M. T. UNIFICATION PLAN.

Obviously, offers which are made at prices substantially lower than those fixed in the Plan will stand the best chance of being accepted. Any and all offers may be rejected.

THIS OFFER DOES NOT APPLY TO CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT—it applies only to securities which have not been deposited under the Plan.

All offers must be made on approved offering forms and submitted not later than 3:30 p. m., Wednesday, February 14, 1940. On February 16, the City, by letter or telegram, will notify owners of its acceptance or rejection of their offers. Payment will be made by the City in cash on February 23, 1940.

Full information, the necessary forms for submitting offers, and complete instructions for depositing securities under the Plan, can be obtained by addressing or calling in person at Room 729, Municipal Building (or 'phone WOrth 2-1200, Ext. 48), New York City, or inquire at your local bank in order to arrange for submitting tenders on the proper forms.

URGE CONGRESS ASSURE PRIVATE RAIL OPERATION

Transport Men Rap Federal Ownership.

Declaring that governmental operation of the railroads would be a national calamity, the Transportation Association of American yesterday urged congress to include in pending legislation a direct statement that the nation's transportation system is to be maintained "under private ownership and operation." Membership in the association comprises 4,100 corporations engaged in varied lines of activity.

"New transportation legislation must not merely provide for the preservation and progress of the American association; it must also insure the continuance of private ownership and operation in transportation," the association said in a statement to all members of congress.

Urges Free Enterprise.

"The preservation of free enterprise in America is dependent to a high degree on making our transportation agencies prosperous under private ownership.

"This will come about only as a result of a true understanding of the cause of the conditions now prevailing; of the disastrous effects of restrictive legislative policies, and, above all, thru an unselfish desire on the part of shippers, investors, labor, and management to join forces in the determination and adoption of a sound national transport policy conceived in the interest of all.

"Should private enterprise fail and government ownership come, it will come because of public apathy, and because self-interest in many places has proved more powerful than public interest."

Opposes Broader RFC Powers.

The association said that it opposed amendments to the Reconstruction Finance corporation's authority which would permit that agency to buy railroad securities in the open market in competition with private capital, thus permanently putting the government in the business of financing private enterprise. Where money is invested control is sought, it said, and government ownership would be around the corner.

Commenting on provisions of the transportation bills, now before both the house and the senate, the association said that rules covering rate making are inadequate. It urged that the rate structure be devised to provide for flexibility in transportation charges to meet fluctuating business conditions. It also asked that rates be at a level to encourage investment by private capital.

It said the public interest would best be served by permitting unification of transportation on approval of the commerce commission, but consolidations shuld proceed along natural lines without compulsion by governmental authority.
